WIDELY DIFFERENT CLAIMS ARE MADE BY BELLIGERENTS

Only One Big Undisputed Fact Remains Unquestioned in the Results of Fighting Between European Nations During Entire Day—Destruction of the German Cruiser Emden.

BRITISH MARINE INSURANCE RATE CUT IN HALF

Fighting Along Line in Belgium and Northern France is of Most Desperate Character, But Little Advantage is Won by Either Force—England Issues Another Diplomatic Paper.

London, Nov. 10.—Widely different claims of contending armies in the Eastern and Western theatres of war, especially concerning the West Flanders situation, tonight left but one big undisputed fact on land or sea. That was the destruction of the German raider Emden and the trapping of the German cruiser Koenigsberg, the latter in the palm-lined East African river under circumstances which read as if they were taken from Stevenson.

The British marine insurance rate almost instantly was cut in half—for never since the days of the Alabama has there been such a successful commerce destroyer as the Emden. Cheers broke forth at Lloyds on the announcement and for the moment the struggles of the armies in France, Belgium, Russia and elsewhere were forgotten.

Yet all these armies were at each other's throats—the Germans and Russians clashing in cavalry engagements along the German frontier; the Russians still harrassing the Austrians in Galicia and the French, British and Belgians uniting to hold back what appears to be a tremendous German attempt to break through the allied line in the vicinity of Ypres.

Many dispatches speak of the movement of German troops eastward from Belgium as indicating the need of reinforcements along the Eastern frontier, but neither the French nor German official statements indicated any slackening in the violence of German attacks in West Flanders. In fact, the French statement says that between the sea and Armentieres the opposing forces were both acting on the offensive.

As to the outcome of those double offensive movements the rival contentions are contradictory, the Germans claiming slow progress near Ypres and the French asserting that the German attack was beaten back. In view of what seems to be a sustained and concentrated German effort in this community, reports of German retirement are hardly borne out, although it is said, they have moved their headquarters still further east, this time from Ghent to Alost.

The situation along the battle line in France proper, from the standpoint of the Allies, was summed up in a dispatch from an "observer with the Indian corps," who says there has been no marked change anywhere, though he professes to see a gradual weakening of German attacks.

Aside from the military aspects of the war, what stood out boldest today was Germany's reported threat to cut off food the United States is sending to Belgium, if the Belgians did not return to their cities and make an effort to resume their normal occupations. The Belgian answer is that it has been impossible to resume a semblance of normal activity because the German soldiery has commandeered all implements and materials necessary to an industrial revival.

The British government tonight issued another so-called white paper, reviewing the incidents which preceded the declaration of war against Turkey. It deals in the main with the Goeben and Breslau affair and sets forth that the Grand Vizier all along was at least ostensibly against dragging Turkey into the conflict, but either way was powerless to resist Enver Bey and his associates, or while outwardly opposing them, was winking at the fast approaching crisis, while the Tukish and German preparations went forward.

ARE NOT UNEASY

Report That an American Cruiser Sunk by Mine Not Credited at Washington

Washington, Nov. 10.—Secretary Daniels today ordered the division of operations in the Navy Department to get into communication as quickly as possible with the cruisers North Carolina and Tennessee, to learn if one had met with a mishap as had been rumored during the day.

The Secretary and other navy officials said they did not fear for the safety of either vessel, but thought it advisable to allay any alarm by getting definite advices. There were rumors that the North Carolina had been blown up by a mine at Beirut, but so far as could be discovered all reports originated within the United States.

The Navy Department last heard directly from the North Carolina and Tennessee November 2. The former was at Birut and the latter at Mytilene, off the coast of Greece.

WIRELESS STATION QUIET

Mexican Government Silences Secret Station Just Across the Line

Washington, Nov. 10.—The Navy Department was advised today that a secret wireless station at Ensenada, Lower California, had been ordered closed by Mexican authorities.

The station, erected on Mexican territory close to the American border is one of several from which, according to British officials here German cruiser have been receiving information of English vessels.

The Navy Department's radio experts and the United States secret service are continuing their search for other wireless stations.

WILL STAND BY PROMISE.

Japan Will Return Kiao Chow Over to China at the End of War.

Washington, Nov. 10.—At the Japanese embassy it was said today that Japan would abide by her original declaration and restore to China the territory of Kiao Chow, the territory occupied by the Germans in the Far East, although embassy officials declared such a restoration was not now obligatory.

Technically and legally, it was said, as Japan had demanded that Germany surrender Kiao Chow of its own accord, and as Germany did not do so, Japan was freed of her promise to turn the territory over to China.

It was said, however, that no definite or positive announcement would be made at this time in regard to Japan's ultimate decision. It is known that strong influences in Japan are at work toward the maintenance of friendly relations with China, and it is believed here Kiao Chow will be turned over at the end of the war.

RAILROAD IS DESTROYED

Russian Official Communication Declares Advance Is Progressing

Paris, Nov, 10.—A Havas dispatch from Petrograd says the following Russian official statement was issued today:

"In Eastern Prussian the right wing of the enemy who has been stubbornly resisting in the region of Lyck has been driven back towards Mazourie Lake.

"East of Neideburg near the Muschaken railroad station a Russian cavalry force defeated a German detachment which was protecting the railroad. The Russians captured a train and blew up the railroad bridges.

"On November 8th Russian cavalry, meeting a cavalry division of the enemy forced it to retire towards Kalisz.

"On the route leading to Cracow we have attained Miechow (a town forty-four miles southwest of Kielce).

"In Galacia, our troops have traversed the river Wisloka. They now occupy Rzeszow, Dynow and Lisko.

German Cruiser Emden, Destroyed by British, and Her Crew

London, Nov. 10.—It was officially announced in London today that the German cruiser Emden has been driven ashore and burned.

The losses among the officers and crew of the Emden are reported to have been very havy.

The Emden was destroyed by the Australian cruiser Sydney. She was driven ashore on an island of the Cocos or Keelink group southwest of Java in the Indian ocean.

The Sydney sighted the Emden yesterday morning. With superior speed she at once closed in and gave battle. The German boat could not escape. There was a running fight, at the end of which the Emden, burning from the shells of the Australian boat, was beached.

The casualties on the Sydney are said to have been slight.

Tokio, Nov. 10.—The German cruiser Emden, pursued by the Australian cruiser Sydney, has been beached on one of the Cocos Islands. According to reports reaching Tokio, the captain and most of the crew of the Emden were saved. Previous to the engagement with the Sydney the Emden cut the British cable connecting the Cocos Islands with the outside world.

COTTON EXCHANGE OPENS THIS WEEK

Is the Forecast From Recent Market Events.

EVERYTHING IS READY

Incorporation of the Cotton Trading Corporation Announced Yesterday —Plans to Be Followed are Made Public

New York, Nov. 10.—Reopening of the New York Cotton Exchange for general trading within the next few days was forecast today by the announcement of the incorporation of the Cotton Trading Corporation to take over December contracts at 9 cents a pound. Although a date for the reopening has not been officially announced a prominent exchange official said there was no reason why business should not begin by the first of next week.

The Cotton Trading Corporation, which is part of the Corporation-syndicate plan for taking over contracts that have remained outstanding since the exchanges were closed, has been organized for business. Its President is S. T. Hubbard, a former president of the Cotton Exchange.

All signatures needed for the corporation-syndicate agreements have been obtained, it is stated and the plan is expected to be put into operation as soon as details have been passed on by the fifteen banks and trust companies financing the plan.

According to plans outlined sometime ago by a special committee of the exchange, the Cotton Trade Corporation will take over December contracts at 9 cents and carry them down to 7 1-2 cents should the market decline to that level. In such an event any contracts remaining in the hands of the corporation will be taken over in turn by members of a syndicate, formed from the exchange membership, who will assume the complete ownership and control of the Cotton. It is estimated that about 200,000 bales will be turned over to the corporation under existing agreements and arrangements already have been made for funds amounting to $1,500,000 for financing this interest down to the syndicate's buying level.

During the past few days December contracts have fluctuated between 7.55 and 7.65 on the curb here with considerable private business reported at 7.60. Owing to the recent firmness in Southern spots some authorities believe members of the syndicate will not obtain many contracts at the 7 1-2 cent level. The corporation, it is understood, will liquidate as many contracts as possible between 9 cents and 7 1-2 cents, and members of the exchange have agreed to a tax on future business amounting to $2.50 per contract for the round turn, to reimburse losses and expenses incurred in the operation.

No further ballot in liquidation-syndicate plan has been announced and the local conference committee notified members today that they should not tender for such ballots, cotton that they had agreed to turn in under the syndicate agreements.

COPPER SHIPMENTS ARE TO BE SEIZED

By England When Consigned "to Order" or Belligerent.

SAYS SIR SPRING-RICE

Italy Does Not Forbid the Passage of Copper into Germany or Austria Unless It Is Reshipped By Italian

Washington, Nov, 10.—Great Britain will seize copper shipments from the United States to Italy if they are consigned "to order" or are proven to be destined ultimately to a belligerent. This was announced today by Sir Cecil Spring-Rice, British ambassador, after a conference at the State Department.

The Ambassador made the following statement:

"The Italian government has prohibited the export of copper from Italy, but not the transit of copper through Italy to a foreign country. Copper consigned to Italy for Italian use will not be subject to seizure, but copper consigned to a belligerent or to order will be liable. Arrangements are being made for the transit of copper to Switzerland for the use of that country on the guarantee of the proper authorities.

"The British government has found that Italy's embargo on the re-exportation of copper would not prevent a shipment originating in the United States from eventually reaching Germany. The Italian government does not feel bound, according to British understanding, to interfere with a shipment from one country to another, if Italian territory is merely used an intermediary stage in the journey of a consignment of goods. Italy construes her obligation, it is said, to extend merely to preventing Italians from re-exporting copper to the belligerents".

The British ruling toward copper, in the opinion of officials here, will result in the detention of all vessels at Gibraltar whose copper cargoes are

CARRANZA WOULD TALK OVER TERMS

Promises to Obey Ultimatum Upon Conditions.

VILLA MUST BE OUSTED

Time Limit Allowed Carranza to Step Down and Out by the Convention's Ultimatum Expired Yesterday at 6 p. m.

Washington, Nov. 10.—The ultimatum of the Mexican convention at Aguas Calientes ordering General Carranza to deliver the executive power in Mexico to Eulalo Guiterrez expired at 6 o'clock tonight. Neither the State Department nor the Mexican embassy here, in charge of Carranza agents, had definite advices as to what had occurred.

Early in the day Rafael Zubaran, Carranza's Washington representative, received a telegram from Luis Cabrera, saying Carranza had decided to recognize the acts of the convention with certain reservations. Carranza, according to Cabrera, told the commission that notified him of the selection of Guiterrez that he would yield the executive power to a provisional president who would exercise no theoretical but actual control of the division of the North, now commanded by General Villa.

The convention had formally notified Carranza that it intended to administer the oath of office to Guiterrez as provisional president tonight and that any one who did not recognize him would be considered as in revolution against the constituted Mexican government. If necessary immediate hostilities will begin against Carranza's forces to enforce the convention's will.

There was a feeling in administration circles that Carranza eventually would yield, being unwilling to plunge Mexico into another revolution. This was based, however, more on previous intimations in official reports as to Car-

DAUGHTERS OF THE CONFEDERACY MEET

Mrs. Josephus Daniels Addresses Opening Session.

HEROIC DEEDS UNSUNG

Women of the South Suffered Untold Hardships During War But Their Memory Nearly Forgotten—Forget Bitterness

Savannah, Nov, 10.—Southern women should recognize and more fully accept the part they may play in eradicating any lingering animosities between the North and South, declared Mrs. Josephus Daniels, wife of the Secretary of the Navy, in an address at the opening session here tonight of the annual convention of the United Daughters of the Confederacy. Mrs. Daniels here as a delegate from North Carolina, spoke in response to an address of welcome.

"Let those of us who know of the travail of the sixties keep alive the glory of sacrifice and the valor of the vanquished to the latest day of our lives" said Mrs. Daniels. "But let us not look mournfully upon the past but ask ourselves the question 'How can Southern women of the twentieth century prove worthy of their lineage and transmit to their children the graces and virtues which were incarnated in the Southern women of the war, and reconstruction periods?'

"First of all, we must know that love is greater than all beside. Our children must be taught to love the flag of their country, and sons and daughters alike given to see the patriotism of thise who wore the blue as well as of those who wore the gray. It was said that Henry Grady died loving the country into peace'. The first duty of the Daughters is to love all men, and illustrate the best traditions of the South by permitting no deed of bitterness to mar or narrow our own lives or the lives of our children.

WILMINGTON'S BIG FALL EVENT OPENS

Striking Picture of Resources of This Section

EXHIBITS OF ALL KINDS

Visitors Crowd Sixth Floor of Murchison Building—Cotton and Educational Celebration Today—Lectures.

PROGRAM TODAY

12 m.—Address by Mr. T. E. Browne, in charge of the Boys' Corn Club work, Raleigh; subject, "Improved Farming as a result of the Boys' Corn Clubs."

3 p. m.—A lecture by Mrs. Jane S. McKimmon, in charge of the Birls' Canning Club work, Raleigh; subject, "Home Canning."

Lectures will be given in large assembly room of Chamber of Commerce on seventh floor of Murchison building. Exhibits on sixth floor of same building.

Presenting in a limited space a striking picture of the varied resources of New Hanover and adjoining counties in home, farm and manufactured products, the Cape Fear Corn Show and Agricultural Fair and the Sorosis Industrial and Fine Arts Exhibit was opened yesterday morning at 11 o'clock with an address of welcome by Mayor Parker Quince Moore, of Wilmington, and will continue through Friday.

Rightly termed Wilmington's chief attraction during the fall season and being the second annual event of its kind to be given in the city by the sea, the event has grown to such proportions that it is no longer a Corn Show or Industrial Exhibit but a fair for the entire southeastern section of North Carolina.

The display of farm, field, factory, orchard, vineyard, forest and garden products that have been placed on the sixth floor of the Murchison National Bank building is indeed remarkable. An additional feature this year that is attracting much attention is the swine and live stock exhibit in the old fire house at Fourth and Princess streets.

Many Visitors Yesterday.

The scene of the fair was crowded all day yesterday not only with visitors from Wilmington and New Hanover county, but from adjoining counties also. While the majority of the exhibits are from Wilmington and New Hanover, there are many from other counties and the interest manifested by those living in these counties has been no less keen than by those in the immediate vicinity.

The ladies of Sorosis and the committee in charge of the Corn Show and Agricultural Fair, Messrs. J. P. Herring, Z. W. Whitehead and L. B. Sasser, deserve great credit for having made this enterprise possible. The "Made in Wilmington" exhibit under the auspices of the Wilmington Chamber of Commerce is one of the big attractions and has been a revelation, not only to visitors from other counties, but also to those living in Wilmington and New Hanover county.

An interesting part of the fair and one that will be of the greatest intest to the farmers of this entire section will be the lectures to be given daily in the large assembly room of the Wilmington Chamber of Commerce on the seventh floor of the Murchison building in close proximity to the fair.

The opening exercises of the fair took place in this room yesterday morning at 11 o'clock when Mayor Parker Quince Moore formally welcomed the many visitors to the city in an address delivered in his characteristic style. It was short and to the point and was marked by sincerity. The response was made by Mr. Leslie M. Johnson, of New Hanover county, who showed that he is not only a farmer and a business man, but an orator of no mean ability. Mr. Z. W. Whitehead presided at the opening.

There will be an address in the same room today at noon by Mr. T. E. Browne, of the State Department of Agriculture, in charge of the Boys's Corn clubs, and at 3 o'clock, Mrs. Jane S. McKimmon, in charge of the Girls' Canning club work, Raleigh, will make an address.

This is Cotton Day.

Today will be known as cotton and educational day and the ladies will wear their "made of cotton" dresses and coat suits, made in the latest styles from cloth manufactured in Wilmington, thus exemplifying the many purposes for which cotton can be used. This will be something novel, interesting and attractive. At noon it is expected that there will be a parade by the school children of the county. Music in the afternoon and evening will consist chiefly of old plantation and Southern songs as well as other familiar airs, couping the [illegible] the present. This will prove a rare treat mingling the melodies of other days with the popular airs of the present.

A charming Wilmington young lady dressed as "Queen Cotton" will be one of the features and she will receive contributions to be usd in the purchase of a bale of cotton by Sorosis at 10 cents a pound. It is hoped that every visitor will contribute at least 10 cents to this fund.

It was impracticable for the Wilmington High School children to join in the parade today at noon.

Exhibits of All Kinds.

In making a circuit of the 19 rooms on the sixth floor of the Murchison building one finds attractions of every kind and there is no one who can not find some exhibit in which he will be interested. There is the country store

PRESENT CONDITIONS SATISFY MR. JOHNSON

American League Head Leaves Omaha Convention.

Will Attend Meeting in Chicago Today to Settle Ownership of Chicago Nationals—Routine Work Accomplished.

Omaha, Neb., Nov. 10.—B. B. Johnson, president of the American League, left for home tonight after the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues, in session here, had given assurance that it would continue to support organized baseball.

The American league, executive declined to discuss the probability of opening the arms of organized baseball to receive the Federal League, but concerning the general situation, he said:

"We are in a satisfactory working position. I shall meet Charles Weeghman in Chicago Thursday and discuss the probable change in ownership of the Chicago National League Club. Later there will be a conference between members of the National Commission and leading minor league officials which we expect will result in again placing organized baseball on a sound footing."

Charles Ebbetts, president of the Brooklyn National League Club, made it plain that control of that organization was not to change hands.

The National Board of Arbitration tonight continued its consideration of complaints and protests.

Today's sessions of the minor league organizations, except for the adoption of the resolution pledging adherence to organized ball, were routine in character.

The Canadian Northwest League and the Canadian League have asked for permission to close their parks during 1915 because of the war, and the general sentiment was in favor of granting their requests.

The matter will be decided tomorrow.

The annual report of Secretary John H. Farrell says 300 cities and towns in the United States and Canada comprising 42 leagues qualified for membership at the beginning of last season and 39 leagues finished the season. Three class D leagues disbanded and two did not start. More than 8,000 players had their contracts recorded but only 1,349 had their terms promulgated. Out of 1,033 players suspended 318 were reinstated.

The association disbursed $307,870 divided as follows:

Drafted by National and American Leagues and American Association $89,850, optional agreements $39,700; paid for release by purchase of American associatshrdluetaoinshrd rican Association players $167,870; returned under waiver rule $4,450.

The list of drafted players for the coming year covers nearly every club in the association. The highest price paid is $2,500. The National League clubs secured eight players at that price and the American League one.

Among players drafted were:

A. & M. BASEBALL GOSSIP

Winston and Jaynes Will Again Don Red and White Next Spring.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

West Raleigh, Nov. 10.—H. E. Winston and L. A. Jaynes, the battery of A. & M. last year, will again don the Red and White next spring. It was reported in sport circles that both were dickering with Clark Griffith of the Washington Nationals and would report for spring training early after Christmas, but the report proved to be untrue. Both men will play for the A. & M. during the 1915 season and then may go North.

Winston is captain of the baseball team next year, and states that it would be unloyal for him to leave at this time. He admitted that he and Jaynes had both had offers from the big leagues. It will be remembered that this battery was the same one which helped Morganton to win the State amateur championship this summer. Winston worked throughout the entire series and well established himself with the baseball circles of the State. Winston has become recognized as one of the best catchers in the State, and the fact that he will remain for another season is gratifying to fans. Jaynes broke into fine form last year, and helped in the winning of a number of important games for A. & M.

Capt. Potter, of the track forces, states that the annual tryout for positions on the varsity team this year will be a cross-country run in fact, as well as in name. The race will start at the cannon in front of Holladay hall and will terminate at the McIver monument in the southside of the capitol square, going by the dam at Lake Raleigh, about two miles from town.

Philadelphia, Nov. 10.—"Pat" Dwyer, trainer of the University of Pennsylvania football team, who has been suffering from malaria since the return of the team from Michigan, resigned today. "By" Dickson, an assistant coach, will take Dwyer's place temporarily.

Albany, N. Y., Nov. 10.—An appeal from Justice Chester's order denying a change of venue in William Barnes' libel suit against Theodore Roosevelt was argued today before the appellate division of the Supreme court. Roosevelt's attorney questioned Justice Chester's discretionary power in denying the request.

FACTS AND FIGURES OF THIS YEAR'S FOOTBALL

Cornell Has Played Most Minutes and Used Most Men.

Washington and Lee Has Scored Largest Number of Points in Season and Have Won Every Game. North Carolina High.

New York, Nov. 10.—Interesting results have been obtained by an analysis of the play of leading college football teams of the East and the Middle-West this season. Cornell has played the greatest number of minutes and used the greatest number of players. The Ithica record shows that in eight games of 436 minutes duration 206 points have been scored and 197 players used. Michigan is second with 428 minutes of play for 220 points but both the army and Dartmouth outrank the Wolverines in players used.

In aggregate scoring the University of Virginia is well up among the leading teams, having a total of 286 points for seven games, all of which have been won except the contest with Yale when the Southern eleven was defeated 21 to 0.

Other teams that have crossed the double century mark are Dartmouth 278; Washington and Jefferson 242; Syracuse 202; Tufts 204; Michigan 220; Cornell 205; North Carolina 258 and Washington and Lee 299. The last named eleven has scored the largest total to date but the scores made against Swarthmore and Georgetown would appear to indicate that this was due in part to the weakness of opponents earlier in the season.

The Southerners, however, have the distinction of being one of the very few elevens that have won every game played. Virginia Polytechnic Institute was the only one to cross the Washington and Lee goal line this fall.

In the Middle West, Chicago, Illinois and Wisconsin all have staved off defeat.

From the standpoint of individual scoring, Mayer of Virginia leads with 13 touchdowns, with Maulbetsch, of Michigan and Ghee of Dartmouth at his heels with 11 each. Barrett and Shuler, both of Cornell come next with 10 apiece. Hughitt, Michigan's star quarterback, easily leads the field in goals kicked from touchdown, having 22 to his credit. Barrett, of Cornell has scored the greatest number of points, his 10 touchdowns, 17 goals and four field goals totalling 89 points.

TO BE DECIDED TODAY

Relations Between Organized Baseball and Outlawed Federals.

Chicago, Nov. 10.—The relations between organized baseball and the Federal League probably will be definitely defined and conjecture over the ownership of the Chicago National League Club ended Thursday, according to Charles Weeghman, president and owner of the Chicago Federals and holder of an option on the Cubs.

Mr. Weeghman said tonight that he expected to meet B. B. Johnson and August Herrmann as soon as they returned from Omaha.

James Gilmore, president of the Federal League said that whatever agreement might be rachd with organized baseball, the Federal League would continue to operate.

YOUNG McNEILL OF CONWAY ESCAPES ROAD SERVICE.

Sentence Suspended Since Father Makes Good All Bogus Checks.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Raleigh, N. C., Nov. 10.—D. T. McNeill, Jr., the young man from Conway, S. C., who passed bogus checks on a number of business men here and in Durham and elsewhere, was today placed under a suspended sentence to 12 months on the Wake county roads by Judge Whedbee with the specific agreement that in consideration of the fact that D. T. McNeill, of Conway, father of the young man, has paid all the bogus checks that have come to light in the course of business and agrees to pay any others that may be found to have been issued, the young man escapes the service of the road sentence providd he is not found within the State of North Carolina after December 1st.

He is to accompany his father to Conway. McNeill was traveling through this section as a socilitor of subscriptions to magazines and passed the bogus checks. He was arrested in Petersburg for the Wake county authorities.

BIDS FOR TORPEDO BOATS ARE OPENED

Six New Vessels of That Type are to Be Built by the United States

Washington, Nov. 10.—Bids for new torpedo boat destroyers opened today at the Navy Department showed the Fore River Shipbuilding Company of Quincy, Mass., the lowest bidder for two of the craft at $795,000 each.

William Camp and Sons, of Philadelphia, bid for thre boats at $825,000 each, and the Bath Iron Works bid for three at $850,500 each. Six vessels are to be built.

Other bidders were the Seattle Construction and Drydock Company for two boats at $860,000, the Newport News Shipbuilding Company for two boats at $875,000 each and the Union Iron Works at San Francisco two boats at $880,000 each.

Prescott, Arix., Nov. 10.—Barney Oldfield tonight was ahead in the Los Angeles to Phoenix Automobile race, arriving in night control here at 2:52. His time from Needles was nine hours and 20 minutes. Olin Davis was second; Nikrek third.

Kansas City, Nov. 10.—The trial of E. C. Chambers, president and four alleged agents of the Chambers Land Company charged with fraudulent use of the mails in the sales of Florida lands will begin next Saturday, Federal Judge John C. Pollock announced today.

home life history—of the South during the war between the States. Southern histories in plenty tell of the glorious conflicts on land and sea. But there is a history of those days not yet fully written. There is untouched a history of heroines. There was stimulus to men who went to death marching to martial music, under inspiring banners, cheered by their comrades. Women poured out their lives in apprehension and labor and sacrifice and unutterable loneliness. Many stories of their deeds have been written, but more have been buried in the hearts of heroines who never expected honor or fame or aught save the privilege of nursing their loved ones. But their daughters owe it to coming generations to illumine the pages of literature by collecting and printing in permanent form these deeds.

"Third, The third duty of the Daughters of the Confederacy is to keep fresh the memory of the brave men who wore the gray. Let them be cheered, now that the snow that never melts has fallen on their heads, by the knowledge that sons and grand-sons hold them in honor and point to their service as illustrative of the noble knights of the race."

Mrs. Daniels paid tribute to Mrs. Woodrow Wilson as the "best type of Southern womanhood".

"When the whole nation mourned her untimely death," she said "It was a solemn pride in the South that the home of her youth was selected for her last response. The memory will live in the hearts of all her country women, but here in the South, it will be our privilege as we decorate the graves of Southern heroes to ever keep green her last resting place and emulate her virtues, her graciousness and her practical helpfulness."

HOUSTON TEXAS NOW DEEP WATER PORT

Channel Which Cost Millions of Dollars Is Completed—Wilson Opened It

Houston, Texas, Nov. 10.—Houston officially became a deep water port today when President Wilson by pressing a button at the White House fired the signal in this city announcing that the Houston ship channel was a reality.

The new waterway cost millions of dollars. It has a minimum depth of 25 feet from the business section of the city to the sea, and a minimum bottom width of one hundred feet. Wharves and line conveniences remain to be constructed but bonds to the extent of $3,000,000 have been voted for the purpose.

"The Thinkers of the Country Are the Tobacco Chewers"— said one of the greatest thinkers this country ever produced.

Says the Ball Player:

"There wouldn't be many double plays pulled off, if we players didn't think pretty straight and quick and right. We need snap judgment but it's got to be good judgment too.

"We can't afford to get up in the air except when the ball's up there.

"That's why we use PICNIC TWIST instead of a dark, heavy tobacco. PICNIC TWIST is mild and it's better than water for keeping you from getting dry."

Men everywhere are finding that there's all the tobacco satisfaction in a mild, sweet, long lasting chew of PICNIC TWIST without the "comeback" on the nerves, found in strong tobacco.

Try one of these soft twists of the mild, mellow part of the leaf and see for yourself.

ALL TEN AMENDMENTS CERTAINLY DEFEATED

So Returns From Seventy-Two Counties Indicate

Heaviest Majorities Against the Tax Amendment—Mrs. Johnson, of Alabama, to Tell of Her Remarkable School

(Special Star Correspondence)

Raleigh, N. C., Nov. 10.—There have now been returns from 72 of the 100 counties tabulated in the office of the Secretary of State as to the votes on all ten of the proposed amendments to the constitution, and the defeat of every one of them is more than ever demonstrated. The votes in hand have not been footed up, but it is evident that all ten are defeated by majorities ranging from around six to sixteen thousand, with the heaviest majority against the seventh, or tax amendment and probably the smallest majority against the amendment for changing "Rebellion" to "The war between the states".

There are 28 counties yet to be heard from, numbers of which are known to have given large majorities against the amendments. Of six counties heard from today Halifax gave 200 and Orange 300 against the tax amendment and Alamance 250, Davie 250, Perquimans 150 and Macon 275 majorities for the tax amendment.

A charter was issued today for The Gaston County Rural Telephone Co., of Dallas, capital $25,000 authorized and $650 subscribed by W. S. Thornburg and others.

There is an amendment for the charter of The Bank of Pinehurst, increasing the authorized capital to $12,000 and that subscribed to $6,000. J. R. McQueen is president of the bank.

Mrs. Johnson's Wonderful Story

The North Carolina Teachers' Assembly, which meets in its 31st annual session in Charlotte, November 25-28, is especially interested in the first visit of Mrs. Marietta L. Johnson, of the School of Organic Education, Fairhope, Alabama. Mrs. Johnson speaks Thursday, Thanksgiving Day, at 8:30 P. M. in College Street High School auditorium, immediately after President M. C. S. Noble makes the annual presidential address. Her subject is "The Experiment at Fairhope." Her own story of the school which she has built will be told in full the first time to North Carolina teachers who are now greatly pleased to hear discussion of a school so elementally different from the public school systems of the country.

Mrs. Johnson speaks three times while in Charlotte. Her first address will be Thursday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the session of the State Association of Primary Teachers which will meet in Tryon Street Baptist Church Sunday School room. She will discuss "Organic Education" at this afternoon conference which will be attended and addressed by numerous teachers in the State schools, besides Dr. P. P. Claxton, United States Commissioner of Education, and Mrs. Johnson. Doctor Claxton's subject is "School Life".

Mrs. Johnson again talks the same afternoon to the State Association of Grammar Grade Teachers and Principals, which meets in Tryon Street Methodist Sunday School room at 3 o'clock in the afternoon. She opens the afternoon program and goes from the first to the second meeting. "The Development of the Child" is her theme

That School at Fairhope

The school at Fairhope is perhaps the most talked of institution in the country. It is the newest of the radical departures from traditional teaching. Columbia University has sent its experts down to Alabama to survey the school and so eminent an authority as Dr. John Dewey, of Columbia, goes back home with an appeal to the country to give the school such financial support as will relieve Mrs. Johnson of the petty worries of carrying the school along and give her time to develop entirely her idea of teaching the child.

The State of Alabama sends her best men there. They confess to shocks when they see children taking exercise at 9 A. M., just a few minutes after the opening of school, and the absence of textbooks in the room of the First Life and Kindergarten classes, strikes them as strangely new. The colossal size of the manual training room, the largest in the group of three considerable buildings, causes comment. Everything spells the abandonment of formality and repression in the schools.

The organic school is a quest for the child's initiative, his self activity, his self control and his originality. There are no grades, no promotions in school. The pupil is a teacher, and high school students about to graduate are made assistants to the principal. Expression is the watchword. Repression is almost a lost art.

The two big questions that Mrs. Johnson is to discuss in Charlotte are the adaptation of her idea to all the grades and the development of the pupil's initiative without endangering his self control through too great an exercise of autonomy.

MASON AND THOMPSON RETURN.

Run-Away Lads Are Back in State School at Kinston.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Kinston, N. C., Nov. 10.—James Mason, of Wilmington, and Harrison Thompson, of Catawba county, boys in their 'teens, who recently ran away from the North Carolina School for the Feeble Minded near here, to see the world, have been returned to the institution.

While at large the lads proved conclusively that however mentally deficient they are, they are accomplished and artful liars and certainly intelligent in some lines. They seemed to have no set destination, but when picked up were working in a cotton mill at Scotland Neck. They walked a part of the distance, but secured passage money for a greater distance by "stringing" a rural station agent.

"We're brothers; our dad's in jail, and we will never get home at this rate," said one of the boys.

The agent was attentive and sympathetic. The other lad wept. "Load of tobacco. Took us with him. Got drunk and kicked up. Boo-hoo," he said.

Then followed a cleverly hatched narration of a series of adventures in Kinston which culminated in the fictitious papa having a run-in with a policeman and his being "jugged."

"They held his wagon and horses for bail," one of the two told the railroad man. He gave them the money for their fares to their alleged "home" somewhere up the line.

BISHOP WATERHOUSE IS TO PRESIDE THIS YEAR

Over Annual Conference of Methodists at Washington

North Carolina Methodist Conference to Convene November 18—Conference Sermon by Rev. H. A. Humble—Fair at Aurora

(Special Star Correspondence)

Washington, N. C., Nov. 10.—North Carolina Methodist Conference will convene here on Wednesday, the 18th with Bishop Waterhouse, D. D., LL.D., presiding. The conference sermon will be preached by Rev. H. A. Humble, paster of the church in Kinston, N. C. There will be about four hundred visitors in the city during the session.

Bishop Kilgo, D. D. LL. D., is expected to attend, and while in the city will be the guest of Judge S. C. Bragaw at his home on Second street. Mrs. Mary P. Baugham will entertain the presiding bishop. Some of the most prominent men in the church will attend, and delegates are expected to arrive from Tuesday, November 17th, until the opening of the regular business session. The conference will in all probability be in session from Wednesday until the Monday following.

The bishop and his cabinet, which is composed of the nine presiding elders will hold their first session on Tuesday afternoon.

The session promises to be one of the most delightful in the history of the church. All arrangements for the conference and the entertainment of the visitors are almost entirely completed.

Fair at Aurora

The Agricultual Fair at Aurora, starts tomorrow, and will continue through Wednesday and Thursday. Special trains will be run over the Washington and Vandemere road, leaving Washington at 10 o'clock A. M. each day and returning, leaving Aurora at 4:30 P. M. Not only will there be attractions not yet seen by visitors to this well known fair, but the exhibits this year by the farmers of this section will far exceed all others. On the second and third days of the fair there will be a street parade, immediately after the arrival of the special train from Washington. The prospects are that there will be a record-breaking crowd.

The funeral of the late Dr. A. C. Hoyt, was conducted Sunday afternoon at St. Peters Episcopal church, by Rev. Nathaniel Harding, and was one of the largest ever held in this city.

FORMER KINSTON NEGRO STIRS HOLLIS TERRACE

Tim Bryan Buys and Settles in Fashionable Brooklyn Suburb.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Kinston, N. C., Nov.10.—Residents of Hollis Terrace, a fashionable suburb of Brooklyn, N. Y., are in a turmoil because a colored family has moved into that exclusive section, intending to reside permanently in a house just purchased there.

Tim Bryan, generally regarded in musical circles as the world's foremost negro composer and director, a former Kinston black and well known here, is causing all the trouble. The Brooklyn papers are devoting scare heads to this society big story, and one, The Times, carries the following:

"Heretofore no colored people have lived at the Terrace. The highly restricted property was supposed to be reserved for white families. Just what the other residents can do about it is a problem. No law has been found to prevent the use of the house and lot by the owners on account of their color. The property was sold last week for $6,000 by Frank W. Scutt to a broker, M. Israel, of 160 Nausau street, Manhattan. No one at the Terrace dreamed that the occupants would be negroes until the family arrived. That set the whole neighborhood agog. Bryan and his wife are in undisputed possession, but it is believed the white residents of the Terrace will combine to buy the property so as to keep out negroes."

Tim Bryan today is supposed to be in Norfolk with the famous Clef Club orchestra of New York negro musicians, of which he is the conductor. He recently was here at the burial of his aged father for the first time since he left Kinston, as a scapegoat who had earned the enmity of many members of his own race, about 20 years ago. Bryan, who can not be ousted by Brooklyn society people from their neighborhood, was driven from Kinston by a crowd of his class, then very low.

COLORED BAPTISTS OF STATE IN SESSION AT HAMLET

Annual Convention of the North Carolina Convention Being Held.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Hamlet, N. C., Nov. 10.—To reach and make the negro activities of the foreign missionary work now being successfully conducted by the Baptist Lott Carey Foreign Missionary convention, Dr. C. S. Brown, of Winton, president, a large delegation of representative negro Baptists are attending the 17th annual session of the North Carolina Educational and Missionary convention which convened today.

The officers are: Dr. A. W. Pegues, principal of the State Deaf, Dumb and Blind Institution for Negroes, Raleigh; Dr. C. S. Brown, principal Normal and Industrial Institute, Winton, corresponding secretary; Dr. E. E. Smith, principal State Normal for Negroes, Fayetteville, secretary; Dr. George Moore, Raleigh, treasurer. Many important phases of the educational and missionary work among the negro Baptists will be discussed. The delegates attending this convention represent over 200,000 negro Baptists in North Carolina.

The ministers met this morning for the organization of the State Baptist Association, which was organized for the purpose of assisting their decrepit and afflicted ministers and their widows. From present indications this will be the strongest organization of its class among negroes. The officers are Dr. R. Spiller, president, Wilmington; Rev. O. J. Allen, Shelby, secretary; Rev. I. Powell, Wallace, treasurer; Dr. W. H. Witherspoon, Raleigh, corresponding secretary.

FIRE LOSS EXAGGERATED

Destruction at Farmville Not More Than $75,000 According to Later Report.

(Special Star Telegram.)

Kinston, N. C., Nov. 10.—Reports last night of the loss from a fire in the tobacco district of Farmville were greatly exaggerated. The mayor there says the total loss will not reach more than $75,000 instead of half to three quarters of a million.

The warehouses, over 100,000 pounds of tobacco, stables, etc., were destroyed. The loss is partially covered by insurance.

Several people were cut by falling glass, but none seriously. The fire, originating in a redrying room at one of the warehouses, is presumed not to have been incendiary.

Death in Lenoir.

John Fields, Jr. aged 54 years, died at his home at Fields Station, at 7:30 o'clock this morning. He was an ex-collector of internal revenue and one of Lenoir county's most prominent planters and a large land owner.

Bright's disease was the cause of his death. The funeral will be in LaGrange tomorrow.

RUSSIA SUBJECT OF LECTURE

Delivered at Trinity College by Rev. R. C. Craven—One of a Series.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Trinity College, N. C., Nov. 10.—"Russia" was the subject of the lecture by Rev. R. C. Craven at Trinity church Sunday evening in the series of lectures on the countries involved in the European war. Mr. Craven discussed the history, geography, and people of this country in a very interesting way, showing that the common prejudice against this country is without any cause, as the nation has always been on the friendliest terms with ours, and Russian people form a large desirable part of our citizenship.

Mr. Craven predicted that the Russian army will play a vastly more important part in the war during the winter months than now. When the Russian mobilization is completed the czar will have no less than 15,000,000 men to pour in front of the enemy's advance or invade the enemy's country. The cold weather will also be a great aid to the Russian army, which is at its best when soldiers of other nationalities are suffering from the cold. The Russian army will never go into winter quarters.

He also urged that a movement be started in the United States for the restoration of Poland, which he declared to be a most enlightened, cultured and liberty loving people.

FARMERS' COOPERATIVE PRODUCE EXCHANGE IN WILSON

Preliminary Steps Taken for its Establishment—Other Notes.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Wilson, N. C., Nov. 10.—The preliminary steps are being taken toward the establishment of a farmers' cooperative produce exchange in Wilson. Leading farmers and members of the Farmers' Union are working on the plans and propose to handle the produce and meats raised in the county, selling to the consumer direct. Mr. W. R. Dixon, one of the promoters of the enterprise, stated today that he believes this will be the most feasible plan to bring about the "live at home" idea with the Wilson county farmer.

Wilson warehousemen report a decidedly stronger feeling in tobacco prices. The receipts are not so heavy for the past five days. The factories have been better able to consequently handle the leaf. The change in the weather is expected to bring in heavy breaks the latter part of the week.

REVIVAL AT WAKE FOREST

Being Conducted by Dr. Cullom, Professor of the Bible

(Special Star Correspondence)

Wake Forest, N. C., Nov, 10.—There is in progress here a revival which is being conducted by Dr. W. R. Cullom, professor of Bible. The pulpit committee met several days ago, and decided it would be a good time for such a movement. The work was gone about quietly. The interest shown has been very good. The young men conduct a prayer meeting in the morning at 6:30 o'clock, and again in the evening at 7:30 o'clock the Y. M. C. A. conducts another prayer-meeting. The prayermeetings and the regular services are both well attended.

ALL DRAFTS, checks, express money orders and postal money orders for the paper should be made payable and all communications should be addressed to

THE WILMINGTON STAR CO.

WEDNESDAY NOVEMBER 11, 1914.

Grow it at home of it is something you are obliged to have.

Charity begins at home but it is mostly a small beginning.

Any such place as Kiddoo might have known it would be captured.

As we read the signs of the times, a rabbit has crossed the road ahead of third termism.

Mr. Carnegie can die poor by helping the distressed of every warring nation in Europe.

The Corn Club boys make a big profit on corn because they grow corn in the right way.

It's no easy thing to be pifflesque every day and Sunday, too, under any and all circumstances.

The Democrats are not worried about having a majority of about 24 in the House and 10 or 12 in the Senate.

"Keep money on the go," urges an exchange. Those who can't make it go, should send for us. When money sees us coming it goes the other way.

A fairy tale is a beautiful story. A war story is a tale of woe. A true war story is a rare tale. They are like the tales of old-fashioned ladies who believe in signs.

With regard to the result of the election, Teddy might quote this saying of Smallet: "I think for my part one-half of the nation is mad—and the other not very sound."

Standpat papers are now giving President Wilson a lot of advice about going slow. A while ago they were giving him fits for "watchful waiting."

Purchasing agents of the European belligerents are in South Carolina endeavoring to purchase war horses and mules. Er-er—isn't that like "going to the goat's house to buy wool?"

It is said that a Chicago man, now deceased, used only about 122 words in willing his wife a fortune of $17,000,000. How he kept her from getting it beforehand without one word, is the mysterious part about it.

It is more or less heroic in William Barnes, Jr., to refrain from hilarity on account of what happened to the Progressive party in New York on election day. Probably if William were to try to give the reason why the Progressive party won the booby prize, he might have to indulge in more or less libelous animadversions.

If the Democrats just do as well in the election of 1916 as they have done in 1914 they will be the winners. Therefore, the Republicans ought to know they did not win in the recent election. They think they gained ground whereas it was their old stamping grounds, lost by them when Bull Mooseism divided their forces.

Says the Charleston Post: "It sounds queer to read that Vera Cruz merchants are petitioning Uncle Sam to move his army from their port. Uncle Sam's boys are always good spenders." That's not it. They are also good mashers and no doubt they have been capturing pretty Greaseristas. Then it is quite natural to object to the dominancy of foreign military forces, whether they are good spenders or not.

When Professor Arthur Holmes, of the Pennsylvania State College, recently addressed the Central Ohio Teachers' Association at Columbus, he took for his subject "Dynamic Ideals." He referred to the lady teachers as "ladies in waiting" (waiting for a chance to marry) and, among other things, he referred to them as "unappropriated blessings," "old maids," etc. Some of the ladies left the hall, and their opinion about the professor's address is that it was "silly, flippant, vulgar and disgusting." We don't blame the ladies for refusing to listen to "the good for nothing old thing."

THE TARIFF IS SAFE

The Democratic tariff can only be revised in the house of its friends. The Democrats have a good working majority in both houses, and if they see fit to do so they can adjust any inequalities of the tariff law that is now in its experimental stage. There may have to be some alterations for the sake of revenue or to correct any possible effects that the law may have contrary to Democratic expectations, but that will be entirely a matter to be dealt with by the Congress that is safely Democratic. The next Congress meets March 4th to give the country two more years of Democratic legislation.

The Republicans won't have a chance again to revise the tariff upwards for at least four years and possibly not then, unless they carry both the Senate and House in 1918. They might carry the House in 1916, but the Senate will remain Democratic till 1918, while the possibility is that they might get control of neither house. The Boston Post says this about that part of it:

"There is one very practical effect of this long Democratic lead in the Senate. The Republicans cannot recover that body in 1916, no matter how successful they may be in the Presidential election. They might conceivably have 150 majority in the Senate—for this reason: The total number of States which will elect Senators two years hence, not now represented by Republicans, and by any remote possibility within reach, does not exceed the majority already recorded. It would accordingly be the latter half of the next administration, assuming that the Republicans succeed in 1916, before they could have control of both branches of the national Legislature."

In the meantime, the country will have plenty of time to experience the effects of the Democratic tariff, passed to relieve the people from exploitation by special interests. If business and industry readily adjust themselves to the new tariff conditions during the next two years, and that is what we may expect, we are going to have four more years of Wilson after 1916. By carrying the House this time, the Democrats will have the only chance they have had since 1856 to fully try out a tariff law passed in the interest of the people. The country has given President Wilson and the Democrats a chance to do their best or their worst, and for once the people will know what a real Democratic administration will do for or do to the country. We are satisfied that the experiment will prove to be one that the masses will like.

A CHORUS OF OPTIMISM.

The Baltimore Sun on Monday morning published a symposium of the views of more than a dozen leading financial men of the Nation upon various vital phases of banking and business, the articles by these men filling ten columns and all taking an optimistic view of the business outlook. The writers, designated by The Sun as "men worth while," and "men who know," are representative of the business interests of the Carolinas, the South and the Nation, and the wide reading of their views is calculated to inspire with renewed hope and encouragement that part of the country covered by that great Baltimore paper's circulation.

In compiling and publishing such a symposium The Sun has rendered valuable service. The standing of the men who write these articles, the character of the articles themselves, together with the new problems and changed conditions that confront the country, as The Sun says, combine to make such a presentation of unusual interest and importance at this time.

The list of contributors to the symposium contains the names of such men as Chas. S. Hamlin, governor of the Federal Reserve Board; William Ingle, Federal Reserve agent and chairman of the board of the regional bank of the Fifth district; A. Barton Hepburn, chairman of the board of directors of the Chase National Bank, New York; William C. Redfield, Secretary of Commerce; H. R. Eldridge, vice president National City Bank, New York; John Skelton Williams, Comptroller of the Currency and member of the Federal Reserve Board, and Thomas E. Cooper, of Wilmington, president of the North Carolina Bankers' Association, who states that conditions in the Carolinas are slowly but gradually improving and that he looks for much better conditions throughout these two cotton states, his views being typical of those expressed by the other writers.

The list also includes C. J. Shannon, Jr., president of the South Carolina Bankers' Association and of the First National Bank of Camden, who is confident of the future; Andrew J. Peters, first assistant secretary of the Treasury, who gives the government credit for averting a war panic; Carter Glass, chairman of the Banking and Currency committee of the House and co-author of the Federal Reserve act; John H. Fahey, president of the National Chamber of Commerce, who declares that nothing can stop the South; John Barrett, director-general of the Pan-American Union, who declares Latin America a rich field for trade; H. W. Chadduck, president of the West Virginia Bankers' Association; Lewis B. Franklin, vice president of the Guaranty Trust Company, New York, and William A. Law, president of the American Bankers' Association, who predicts the early advent of an irresistible tide of trade.

Comptroller Williams says the business of the Nation will soon assume great proportions, declares that all reports show a feeling of substantial optimism and that National bank examiners have found business about to expand, whether the European war is a long or a short one. Governor Hamlin predicts better business to follow; Mr. Hepburn declares prosperity is in store for the country, and Secretary Redfield declares it is "time to stop whining."

With such a chorus of optimistic and authoritative expressions from men who know, why should we not take courage and press forward with new zeal and a quickened step?

PITY THE NEXT LEGISLATURE

Presuming the Tax amendment has been defeated, the biggest problem the forthcoming Legislature will have to face will be that of revenue and taxation. However lightly one may consider it, this is a problem to tax the ability of the strongest men who have been elected to the General Assembly. It were nonsense to say that the problem will solve itself, that it is no cause for worry on the part of anybody.

One of three courses is absolutely imperative. The Legislature must find a way either to increase the State's revenue or to decrease its expenditures, else more bonds must be added to the million authorized by the last General Assembly. Under the old constitution, to adequately increase the State's income without increasing the burdens of the average taxpayer will require all the sagacity and ingenuity the members of the Legislature possess, while scarcely less of courage, strength and statesmanship will be necessary to reduce the appropriations. And it is hardly to be believed the people would stand for another bond issue to meet a deficit.

To take any action that would increase the burdens of the average taxpayer would raise a mighty howl from Murphy to Manteo. To reduce the appropriations to the University, the A. & M. college, the hospitals, the public schools fund, the Department of Agriculture, and the other numerous and sundry educational and charitable institutions would bring forth an avalanche of protest, criticism and condemnation from the executives, supporters, patrons and friends of these institutions, who will be on hand as usual with their almost overpowering pleas and unanswerable arguments for larger instead of smaller appropriations. With respect to the problem of revenue and taxation we surmise that the next Legislature is going to be "between the devil and the deep blue sea" and the member of the Legislature who has the sincerity, honesty and patriotism to fit him for the office, will find himself perplexed when he realizes that he is to be "damned if he does and damned if he doesn't".

The Fayetteville Observer thinks that if the next Legislature does anything at all in the way of tax legislation it will be a matter for great surprise. And yet if nothing at all is done, the greatest problem before the body will be left unsolved and as a consequence the State's institutions must suffer on account of reduced appropriations and progress must halt so far as the State's affairs are concerned, else the State must go further in debt, in either of which cases the Legislature will be subject to little less criticism than if something were done in the matter of tax legislation. This is one time when the other fellow is welcome to our seat in the legislative halls.

However, we should not be surprised if the Observer has figured it out about right when it says that if the seventh amendment is defeated, the members of the General Assembly will have a strong card to play in these words: "Mr. Speaker, I am unalterably opposed to tinkering with the tax laws. On the third day of November last, the seventh amendment of the Constitution of this great State was submitted to the people at the ballot box and they, the sovereigns of this grand old commonwealth, put the seal of their disapproval on any change in the present system of taxation. Therefore, Mr. Speaker, I appeal to my colleagues on this floor, who are here to represent the people, to stand by the people and see that their rights are protected!" Followed by great applause.

The editor of the Observer writes like a man who had been there. He has written a little speech that, in substance, doubtless will be frequently heard on the floors of the General Assembly next January and February.

SHIPPING CATTLE, BUYING BEEF.

Thousands of fine mountain beef cattle are being shipped out of the mountain and Piedmont sections of North Carolina to northern and western slaughter and packing houses. While we were up the country a few years ago, we saw a drove of 60 fine cattle driven to a cattle pen on the railroad for shipment to Richmond. The cattle buyer boasted that he was doing a good business and said his annual shipments averaged 3,000 head.

So far so good. It shows that the farmers are raising cattle and that is what they ought to do. They found it profitable to raise cattle, but much better profits and this country's share in them will come when North Carolina quits shipping its cattle away and turns them into meat in her own slaughter houses.

The cattle shipping business not only shows that the farmers are raising cattle but it shows that Southern centers with distributing facilities are neglecting the opportunity to put up abbatoirs and cold storage houses, so they can become markets for home raised cattle. All round it will be more economical to turn our own cattle into marketable beef. Western North Carolina has a chance to put up a packing house because it could get a home supply of fine cattle, as instanced by this from the Sparta Star:

"Eugene Transou passed through Sparta last week with two droves of cattle, aggregating 200 head of as fine stock as you ever see, headed for Mount Airy, from which point he will ship by rail to various Eastern points, some going as far as Washington. Mr. Transou has handled several large orders for cattle this season and has been very successful."

Shipping cattle is almost an every day business from Western North Carolina and Upper South Carolina, from which regions the cattle tick has long ago been driven by government aid. However, it is the reverse of economy to ship our raw material away and buy back the finished product at several times the price we get for raw material.

The town, or rather thriving young city, from which we saw cattle shipped was furnishing business to a local distributing plant of a Western packing house. Local consumers were paying from 18 to 20 cents a pound for beef, while beef cattle were being shipped from that town, hides, hoofs, horns, tallow and meat, at from 4 to 7 cents a pound.

It used to be the case that when the South made money on the cotton crop it was lost in buying futures on the New York Cotton Exchange. The New Yorkers know more about cotton in a minute than Southerners know in a whole year, because they spend thousands of dollars on systems for getting accurate information from every cotton community in the South. A new cotton firm in New York once sent a representative to Wilmington to find out about the status of the South's crop. A well posted cotton man referred him to New York. There are men there who devote their time, money and brains to following closely every detail of cotton acreage, varying crop conditions, production and consumption. It is quite natural therefore, that they should be better posted than men in isolated cotton sections of the South. They spend money in order to know.

"With wild geese and ducks now coming south, we may know that it presages cold weather," says a contemporary. It really presages cold weather where they came from. Geese and ducks are only tourists coming to the open waters of the South where they can feed. They are flying from ice and snow to get the benefit of the mild winters of the South. Wild geese and ducks know by instinct where the weather is fine and pickings are good, hence they wing their way to the Sunny South. They come South on account of the feeding grounds and the mild climate in which there is no ice and snow to keep them from getting something to eat. Be it remembered, therefore, that the weather is fine, where the feathered tourists come and cold in the region they abandon because it isn't fit for them to remain for the winter.

CURRENT COMMENT.

It was a short and sharp campaign which was waged in behalf of the proposed amendments to the Constitution, and as this is considered in review it was a campaign to which was given the capable and energetic services of two men whose direction of its plans were such as to single them out for especial commendation. These two are J. W. Bailey, chairman of the Amendments Campaign Committee, and W. S. Wilson, secretary of the committee. Both of these are busy men and we happen to know that they were called upon insistently by the friends of the amendments to manage the fight for the committee. Having undertaken it they did not spare themselves to do all in their power to achieve success. Mr. Bailey with his pen and in addresses, Mr. Wilson in looking after detail work with Mr. Bailey. At all times during the campaign they were diligent in the work of securing arguments in favor of the amendments and in having these used by the press, and as far as possible sent through the mails, so as to reach the voters. And though it appears certain that the amendments have lost, the taxation and revenue amendment in particular—though some of the other nine may possibly have pulled through—none the less Mr. Bailey and Mr. Wilson did a patriotic service.—Raleigh News and Observer.

We Democrats and real progressives and independents feel more cheerful today than we did when we took up the papers Wednesday morning. The change from a majority of over 140 in the House of Representatives to a majority of only 23 seems on its face to represent a great reverse and a severe popular condemnation. In point of fact, it marks only a normal readjustment, the removal of causes that had produced unusual political conditions, the return to something like the old political balance. All things considered, there is ground for real satisfaction in the result. As compared with 1912, we have not lost anything that came to us that year by virtue of our own strength. We have, indeed, more than held our own, and in the almost straightout trial of power have shown that we stand better with the people than we did two years ago. When we consider the disadvantageous circumstances under which this trial has been made, it is matter for congratulation that the Democratic majority in Congress survives the test to which it has been subjected. The party has virtually had to tear up and reconstruct the whole financial and economic system of the country and to threaten its corporation interests with new restrictive and penal legislation, and it has had to do this in the face of severe business depression, intensified recently by the stagnation due to the war. To these powerful causes of irritation and discontent were added the grave differences of opinion engendered by the Panama tolls question and the issues raised by our attitude toward Mexico. With such serious handicaps as these, it is wonderful that the party should have been able to hold its intrenchments at all and it demonstrates very clearly that it has grown in public confidence and apprehension since the presidential election.—Baltimore Evening Sun.

BUSINESS OUTLOOK IS MUCH BRIGHTER

Bankers and Others Are Conservatively Optimistic

Baltimore Paper Prints Opinions of Leaders All Over Country—Statement From Mr. T. E. Cooper, of This City.

Conservative optimism relative to the outlook for early improvement of the business conditions of the country is the keynote of statements from officials of the Federal Reserve Board, financiers and business men all over the country, printed in the Baltimore Sun of Monday, November 9, along with the official statements of more than 140 of the banks and banking institutions of the Fifth Regional Reserve District, filed in response to the last call of the Comptroller of the Currency.

Commenting editorially on the statements of the financiers and business men, the Sun has the following to say:

"That their verdict is one of healthy optimism is as encouraging as it is important, for none of them belongs to the tribe of rainbow chasers or visionaries. They always have a solid foundation of fact for the faith that is in them, and we do not think even the most critical and conservative of us, after carefully reading what they have to say, will fail to share their conviction that the worst of our business troubles are practically over, and the belief that era of great prosperity lies ahead of us in the comparatively near future."

Among those whose optimistic statements appeared in the Sun are John Skelton Williams, Comptroller of the Currency; Charles S. Hamlin, chairman of the Federal Reserve Board; William C. Redfield, Secretary of Commerce; William Ingle, chairman of the board of the Reserve Bank for the Fifth district; Carter Glass, chairman of the committee on Banking and Currency of the House of Representatives; A. B. Hepburn, chairman of the board of directors of the Chase National Bank of New York; H. R. Eldridge, vice president of the National City Bank, of New York and other bankink and business men of the North and South, including Thos. E. Cooper, of this city, president of the American National Bank and of the North Carolina Bankers' Association.

Mr. Cooper's Opinion.

Mr. Cooper's statement as to the conditions in the Carolinas, published in the Sun, is as follows:

"Conditions in the Carolinas are slowly but gradually improving. On account of the nonmovement of the cotton crop, business has been somewhat stagnant, but with the reserve banks opening on November 16 and upon completion of the Wade cotton pool plan, I look for much better conditions throughout the entire Carolinas, where cotton is king.

"As a rule at this season of the year banks in the Carolinas are in position to liquidate their bills payable, but this has been out of the question this year since there has been almost no cotton moving, which staple we depend upon moving in order to liquidate bills payable and rediscounts. Southern banks have been exceedingly fortunate in having the time of payment extended by their Northern correspondents and I am sure that the Southern banks are very grateful for the courtesies extended them by their Northern correspondents. While the Southern banks have not called loans, I take it that they have endeavored to make liquidations where they could possibly do so without inconvenience to their customers. As a rule the conditions throughout the Carolinas are much better than one could expect.

"The attitude of the Treasury Department I feel has been very gratifying to all banks throughout all sections, as the Treasury Department has certainly shown a disposition to be of much service to the national banks as possible."

ODD FELLOWS' CONVENTION

State Officials Will Attend Meeting Here Today.

The annual convention of the Odd Fellows of the Sixth district will be held in Odd Fellows hall, Third and Princess streets, this afternoon and evening. The afternoon session will begin at 2:30 o'clock and the evening session, which will open to the public will begin at 8 o'clock.

Grand Master W. F. Evans, of Greenville, N. C., head of the order in this State, and Mr. B. H. Woodell, of Raleigh, for the past 25 or 30 years Grand Secretary for North Carolina, will be among the prominent Odd Fellows here for the meeting.

New Company Chartered.

The North State Pulp and Paper Company with Messrs. W. E. Worth, John J. Krier and Walter H. Crocker as incorporators, has been chartered with a capital stock of $25,000. The new company plans the manufacture of wood pulp paper but the plans have not been definitely worked out, it is stated.

THIN FOLKS MADE FAT.

The Way Samose Works Its Wonders. Guaranteed by J. Hicks Bunting Drug Co.

More than half the readers of The Star would give almost anything to be plump and rosy instead of thin and scrawny.

Physicians and chemists for years have studied the problem of making a flesh forming food, but it is only within the last few months that a bright man discovered the prescription that taken with the daily meals gave a positive increase in flesh. In fact it was so certain in its action that a guarantee was attached to each package stating that if weight did not increase as a result of using it, the purchase price would be refunded.

This preparation is now put up in convenient form for use under the name of Samose.

The J. Hicks Bunting Drug Co., has secured the agency in Wilmington for Samose, and as the percentage of satisfactory results from the use of this prescription is so nearly one hundred per cent, they feel there is no risk in offering to refund the money if Samose does not do all that is claimed for it.

Everybody that is thin and out of health should begin today the use of Samose with a guarantee like this.

WORK ON FIRST DEEP WELL

Drilling Was Begun Yesterday—Citizen Portests Against It Being Sunk on Private Property.

Work upon the first of the proposed battery of deep wells favored by Councilman T. W. Wood and other members of City Council as the most suitable source of a public water supply here was begun yesterday. The well is being sunk on the property of Mr. Wm. E. Worth, just across the street from the city stables, where tests for the wells have recently been concluded.

Mr. Worth, at the request of City Council, is supervising the drilling of the wells, he having had considerable experience in this work, and believing that an abundant supply of pure water can be had from such a source. He stated yesterday that the tests which have been made on the city property have proved satisfactory in every way, and that the quantity of water secured was all that could be desired, but that it was impossible to ascertain from the small test holes just how much water can be had. When the well upon which work was begun yesterday is completed some idea as to the amount of water available can be had. The well now being sunk is 15 inches in size.

The fact that the well is being sunk on Mr. Worth's property, rather than on property of the city, has been the subject of a vigorous portest from Mr S. J. Ellis, who called the attention of Mayor Moore to the matter, and urged against the sinking of a well on private property without a contrac t having been made.

Mr. Ellis and Mayor Moore were discussing the matter yesterday on the street when Councilman Wood came up. Mr. Wood is the champion of the deep well idea, and Mr. Ellis also protested to him against the well being sunk on private property.

Mr. Wood, in reply, stated that he knew that the well was being drilled on Mr. Worth's property, and that the reason for this was that a more abundant supply of water can be had on this spot than on the city property.

It was pointed out by Mr. Ellis that in the event the well proved satisfactory the city would have to purchase the property before it could get the use of the well. This Councilman Wood admitted, but added that Mr. Worth was willing to have the valuation of the property appraised by a committee of disinterested citizens, and would abide by the decision of the committee.

The matter will probably be discussed at the weekly meeting of City Council this morning.

NEGRO SAYS COMPANIONS ROBBED HIM OF MONEY

Recorder Sends Them to Superior Court for Trial.

Ed. Jefferson told in the Recorder's court yesterday how Son Darling and Norman Parker held him up on Seventh street on Wednesday night of last week and robbed him of $37.50. He said that Wednesday night he was at a pool room with these negroes and others and that he heard them plotting against him. He determined to stay at the room until they left, he said, and did remain until it closed and then ran across the street to get a companion before going home.

However, it was all in vain, he said, for the two negroes, whom he was able to identify even in the dark, knocked him down and got all his money and then ran away. They were arrested on Thursday by members of the police department.

After hearing Jefferson's story the Recorder found probable cause and sent them to Superior Court for trial. In default of bond in the sum of $200 each they went to jail.

Son Ellerby and Walter McGhee, both colored, and Bill Cumber, white, charged with engaging in an affray Sunday afternoon, were found not guilty. Ed Russ, white, who was also implicated in the affair, failed to appear and a capias was issued for him.

Charlie Poke, colored, was given months in jail with the privilege of being hired out or of going to the roads for an alleged assault on a female. Judgment was suspended in a case against him for carrying concealed weapons. Frank Campbell, colored, was found not guilty of violating the prohibition law, and Douglass Smith, colored, was found not guilty of an assault with a deadly weapon.

MENTAL MUSICAL TELEPATHY

Mr. Lake Gave Public Demonstration Yesterday Morning.

William Lake and his assistant, Z. Bush, who are appearing at the Victoria Theatre in a mental telepathy act, yesterday gave a public demonstration of their art.

To Mr. Lake, seated in the Junction Restaurant, spectators whispered the names of any song they might call to mind. Mr. Lake then transmitted the air to Mr. Bush, seated at a piano at the Steiff parlors, more than a block away, and the spectators in the Junction Restaurant, calling up the Steiff parlors over the telephone, heard the strains of the music over the wire.

Mr. Lake was searched before the demonstration to show that no wireless apparatus, etc., was concealed about his person. Mr. Jack Newman, proprietor of the Junction, suggested the first number to Mr. Lake, mentioning "Casey Jones," a rag time hit of several years ago. These listening at the telephone heard Mr. Bush playing "Casey Jones" at the Steiff store. Other numbers tried were "The Star Spangled Banner," "Dixie Land," "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine," and several others, and each of these was transmitted to Mr. Bush by Mr. Lake.

Mr. Lake will give his performance at the Victoria this afternoon and tonight.

WILL NOT ACCEPT CALL

Rev. William J. Gordon Will Continue His Mission Work at Spray.

Rev. William J. Gordon, now engaged in mission work at Spray, N. C., has announced that he will not accept the call, recently extended to him to become assistant rector of St. James' Episcopal church, but will continue in his present work. He is related to a number of Wilmington families and has many friends in the city, who had hoped that he might decide to make his home here.

Rev. Dr. William H. Milton, rector of St. James', stated yesterday that further action regarding the selection of an assistant would possibly be taken at the next meeting of the vestry.

SMITHS GIVEN TERMS IN FEDERAL PRISON

Charged With Illicit Distilling in Robeson.

Neighbors Through Attorneys Request Judge Connor to Give Them Heavy Sentences—Other Cases in Federal Court

Judge Henry Groves Connor, presiding over the fall term of Federal court, which convened yesterday morning, sentenced W. B. Smith, a white man of Robeson county, to two years in the Federal prison in Atlanta, Ga., on a charge of illicit distilling, and his nephew, John Smith, to one year and a day in the same institution for a similar offense, yesterday afternoon.

Court convened yesterday morning at 10 o'clock and after the grand jury was drawn, of which Mr. L. W. Moore, of Wilmington, was named as foreman, Judge Connor made a short charge in which he named the important duties that they would be called upon to perform. He especially stressed the importance of enforcing the laws forbidding the manufacture and sale of whiskey and defined the offences coming under the state law and those coming under the Federal law. Like all his charges and opinions he spoke to the point and did not waste time in meaningless statements.

District Attorney Francis D. Winston, of Windsor, and Assistant District Attorney E. M. Green, of Newbern, were on hand to represent the government in the criminal cases. United States Marshal W. T. Dortch, of Goldsboro, and Deputy S. P. Collier, of this city, were at their station, as well as the other officials of the court. There were on hand a large number of witnesses from other counties, especially from Robeson, from which were several cases for the illegal sale and manufacture of whiskey.

Assisting District Attorney Winston in the prosecution of John and W. B. Smith were Stephen McIntire, L. R. Varser and T. L. Johnson, Esqs., of Lumberton, these having been retained by citizens, living in Howellsville township, where the Smiths are alleged to have engaged in illicit distilling.

Mr. McIntire made a statement to the court in which he said that the people of Howellsville and Wisharts townships were determined to break up the illicit distilling which has become altogether too common lately to suit them. He declared that formerly these were among the most law abiding townships in Robeson county but that recently because of the distilling operations that have become prevalent they have suffered a relapse.

He made a strong plea that Judge Conner make the sentence against the Smiths a heavy one in order that it might act as a deterrent to others. Short speeches were also made by the other attorneys in the case, including W. S. Britt, Esq., of Lumberton, who represented the defendants. After hearing these statements Judge Connor sentenced them to terms as above stated.

P. J. Faircloth, white, who was also implicated in distilling operations in the same township as the Smiths, is now serving a term of 18 months on the county roads of Robeson, having been sentenced by the Superior court. There are several other alleged offenders now at large.

W. C. Tyson, white, of Bladen county, charged with illicit distilling, under bond of $500, failed to appear and the case was continued until Thursday morning. Tyson is said to be sick at his home and the court granted the extension until it could be determined whether or not this is true.

Charles Blocker, colored, of Maxton, was sentenced to serve four months in the county jail on a charge of retailing. Judgment was suspended in a case against Will Currie, of St. Paul's, charged with retailing.

Berkley Hickman, a colored boy, of Columbus county, was charged with robbing a mail box, but he was considered entirely too small to try and a nol pros was taken with the understanding that his father should look after him more closely in the future than in the past. George Best, of Columbus county, charged with illicit distilling, was found not guilty. A number of cases were continued until the next term.

LECTURE ON BIRDS

Stereopticon Exhibition at Southside School toMorrow Night.

Tomorrow evening at the Southside School, Mr. John J. Blair, superintendent of the city schools, will give a lecture on birds, illustrated with more than 125 stereopticon slides in colors. The lecture will be attended by the school children and their parents, and the general public is also invited.

No admission will be charged, but a contribution box will be placed at the door, and all who desire may contribute a small amount toward the flag pole for the school. The pole has already been purchased and will be raised over the school building Saturday morning, so that it will be ready for the flag to be presented the school next Sunday by the Junior Order.

This will be the first time that the Southside School has been open at night. The electric lights have now been placed and the public is invited to attend and see the handsome building.

FUNERAL OF MRS. WILLARD

Services from Residence This Morning at 11 O'clock

The funeral of Mrs. M. S. Willard, who died at her home in this city, Monday afternoon, will be conducted from the residence, No. 526, Orange street, this morning at 11 o'clock by Rev. Dr. Wm. H. Milton, rector of St. James' Episcopal church of which the deceased was for many years a faithful and devoted member. The interment will be in Oakdale cemetery.

Mr. Willard is chairman of the Board of County Commissioners and the County Board of Health, and from 10:30 until 11:30 o'clock this morning, during the funeral, all the offices in the court house will be closed.

To Open Bids January 5.

Major H. W. Stickle, United States district engineer, will advertise for bids on November 21 for the construction of the breakwater at Cape Lookout. The bids will be opened on January 5. The entire project will cost more than $3,000,000.

EIGHTH ANNUAL MEETING

Wrightsville Beach & Suburban Developing Co. Earned Money During the Past Year

The eighth annual meeting of the Wrightsville Beach & Suburban Developing Company was held yesterday at noon at the offices of the treasurer, Mr. Thos. H. Wright, and the reports of the president, Mr. Jno. Van B. Metts, and Secretary Wright were indicative that the bottom has not altogether dropped out of business on account of the foreign war.

The Wrightsville Beach & Suburban Developing Company, while a small corporation, has passed through a very successful year, having made some money during the past season, as shown by the declaration of an eight per cent dividend, with a sufficient amount held in reserve to meet any extraordinary expenses which may arise.

This corporation was organized January 21, 1907, for the purpose of buying, selling, and owning or renting suburban and city real estate. Col. Metts has been president and Mr. Wright secretary since the organization.

Having been organized in 1907 and starting business in the face of the conditions prevailing during the well-remembered panic year, the company built the first cottages on the sound side of the beach, there being 17 in all.

Some were inclined to discourage the idea that cottages on this location would rent. The contrary, however, was the case. They not only rented well, but have now all been sold at good prices.

In the spring of 1913 four nice, well appointed cottages were built on the Northern Extension of the beach, facing the ocean, and these have each year been occupied. The company also owns several pieces of city property, and has some money invested in good mortgages.

Though started in a comparatively small way, the Wrightsville Beach & Suburban Developing Company has been an enterprising factor in building up the Beach as a summer resort, and has earned for itself no small degree of credit from all who are interested in the development of the island.

Greatest Event in Woman's Life

All human experience looks back to motherhood as the wonder of wonders.

The patience, the fortitude, the sublime faith during the period of expectancy are second only to the mother love bestowed upon the most helpless but most marvelous creation—a baby.

Women are quick to learn from each other those helpful agencies that aid to comfort, that conserve their nervous energy and yet are perfectly safe to use and among these they recommend "Mother's Friend."

It is entirely an external application designed to lubricate the broad, flat muscles and skin that protect the abdomen. It has been in favorable use for nearly half a century and is known to mothers in almost every settled community in the United States who highly recommend it. You will find it on sale in drug stores. "Mother's Friend" is utterly harmless, contains no deadening drugs and yet its influence in the skin and muscles beneath as also upon the network of nerves beneath the skin is very beneficial, very soothing and a wonderful help. The muscles expand naturally and are not subjected to unnecessary surface strain and pain.

Get a bottle of "Mother's Friend" today at any drug store and write to us for our instructive little book to mothers. Address Bradfield Regulator Co., 413 Lamar Bldg., Atlanta, Ga.

PRETTY CHURCH WEDDING AT ST. JAMES' YESTERDAY.

One of the prettiest weddings of the fall social season was solemnized yesterday afternoon at 5:30 o'clock at St. James' Episcopal church when Miss Margaret Ellison Quince, daughter of Mrs. Nathaniel Hill Quince, became the bride of Mr. Harry Thomas Kinney, of Rochester, N. Y., Rev. Dr. Wm. H. Milton, the rector, performing the ceremony.

Charming simplicity was the predominating feature of the ceremony and added an atmosphere of sweetness often obscured in ceremonies of a more elaborate nature.

Miss Sophie Watters was maid of honor and Mr. Robert Diehl was best man. Messrs. Stone Pulliam and Burton Myers were the ushers.

The bride wore a gown of white charmeuse and carried a bouquet of bride roses and lilies of the valley. The maid of honor wore yellow chiffon and carried chrysanthemums.

Following the ceremony, a reception was given at the home of the bride's mother, No. 108 South Fourth street.

Mr. and Mrs. Kinney left on an evening train for the North, going by way of Washington, D. C., to Harrisburg, Pa., where they will stop over for a visit to the parents of the groom. From there they will go to Rochester, N. Y., where they will make their home.

Mr. Kinney is a well known young civil engineer. His bride is one of the most charming and popular members of the younger social set in Wilmington.

THEATRICAL

Both a big show and wartime prices have got the people going at the handsome Victoria. Yesterday seemed like a holiday at this cozy vaudeville house. The crowds were large and the bill was indeed a gala one. The solid comfort of the Victoria was also a big card. The present show—and, by the way, today will be the last chance to witness it—is headed by a sensationally clever act, William Lake & Co., in "The Modern Svengali," and this mysterious act, a wonderful exhibition of telepathy, again startled yesterday. The performers presented thought transmission in most novel way, and each audience was left to wonder and wonder. Standing in the audience Mr. Lake transmits to a performer on the stage just what musical composition some auditor has whispered to him, and the performer plays it, no matter how old, how new or how difficult the air. Today this wonderful act will be presented at the Victoria for the last time, as beginning tomorrow the regular midweek change of show will be offered. Another great act of the present show is offered by those well known comdy folks, Ray and Hilliard, and its a scream for pure mirth. They stage their act most attractively, carrying special scenery. In addition to this fine vaudeville are two reels of the very latest "movies."

Bear in mind that an extra feature will be given Friday night.

Trey o' Hearts" Day.

"Yes, I'll meet you there. If I'm late, hold a seat for me." Yes, every one will be there this afternoon and tonight—at the Bijou theatre. For 'tis "Trey o' Hearts Day" that mid-week period to which some 2,000 Wilmingtonians look forward to each week with anxiety and pleasant anticipation. For undoubtedly, "Trey o' Hearts" has delighted more Wilmington amusement lovers than any picture ever flashed on a screen in the city. It's drawing near to a close now, and each succeeding installment sees the many and widely divergent themes and plots slowly but surely coming together, for one of the greatest and grandest climaxes ever framed in a story of any kind. And you won't know what it's going to be ten lines from the last word in the story, nor two minutes before the close of the picture, so adeptly has it been conjured up in the mind of one of America's greatest story-writers.

The 13th installment, booked for today, was the most dangerous of all so far to stage, and not a single player in the company escaped without injuries of some kind, although they pluckily went ahead with the picture.

Coming next on today's big bill is a mammoth Mutual release, "The Motherless Kids," in which is seen beautiful little Margarita Fischer in the leading role, supported by Harry Pollard, Allyn Lewis and Mary Scott.

Then there's a big comedy surprise in "Mr. Noah's Adless Day," a rousing Joker with pretty Louise Fazenda in the leading role.

"Million Dollar Mystery" Today

Be on hand early today at the popular delightfully comfortable Grand Theatre, because there today will be presented the sixth episode of the wonderful, gripping "Million Dollar Mystery" Harold McGrath's great serial film that has all Wilmington talking and eagerly awaiting the next appearance on the big Grand screen of the following episodes. Yet this will not be all at this charming theatre today. There will be other big films, thus not only affording a great double bill, and all for 5 cents admission, any time today, but quite the largest and most pretentious offering ever flashed on a "movie" screen in Wilmington. Quite the biggest and best ever flashed on any screen for the tiny price of 5 cents. And the Grand is in such a comfortable spot in which to enjoy a good show. On cold days it is as warm as the proverbial toast and therefore ladies and children especially seek this pleasure palace.

Besides the sixth installment of "The Million Dollar Mystery" there will be two other big films and they will be hummers for comedy, so as to tickle the risibles of every one. Lubin's big laughfest "On Circus Day", a film that will appeal to all, but especially to the children, who love everything that savors of the circus, will be one, while the other will be the Vitagraph's "Fisherman Kate", which is also a merry jumble and will cause howls of mirth.

LOCAL DOTS.

—Numbers of Wilmingtonians recalled yesterday that the day was the tenth anniversary of the riot of 1898.

—Walter Scott, Sis Baldwin, John Williams, T. McMillan and Eddie Bryan, all colored, were arrested last night by the police on warrants charging them with gambling. The warrants were served by Policemen G. W. Bullard, S. H. Fulford and A. E. Munn.

—Monday's Lumberton Robesonian: "The series of meetings which has been going on at the Presbyterian church since Tuesday evening of last week will close tomorrow evening. Services are being held at 3:30 and 7:30 each day. Rev. Dr. A. D. McClure, of Wilmington, has been assisting the pastor, Rev. J. F. Gorrell. Dr. McClure has been preaching some powerful sermons, large crowds have been attending the services, and much interest has been manifest."

—Monday's Lumberton Robesonian: "The Scottish Chief says that Mr. J. W. Carter, of Maxton, was found unconscious in his bed early Saturday morning, but that later he appeared much better, though suffering considerable pain in the region of his liver. A 'phone message to The Robesonian at 2:30 this afternoon states that Mr. Carter's condition is much improved today."

Professor Branson Invited.

At a meeting of the Civic Improvement committee of the Chamber of Commerce yesterday at noon it was decided to extend an invitation to professor Eugene C. Branson, of the chair of rural economics of the University of North Carolina, to make an address to members of the Chember of Commerce and local alumni of the University at some date in the near future on the subject of civic improvement. The question of beautifying the approaches to the city along the railroad tracks was discussed and it was decided to take up the matter with the railroad officials and the city council.

CARGO OF HORSES ARE SMOTHERED TO DEATH

Eight Hundred Lost on Steamer Rembrandt.

Steamer, Reported Afire Off Virginian Capes Monday, Now Heading for Newport News for Examination of Vessel.

Norfolk, Va., Nov. 10.—With less than a dozen of the 800 horses she carried still alive the British steamer Rembrandt, which caught fire when 200 miles off Cape Henry yesterday, is tonight throwing the carcasses of the dead animals overboard.

The Rembrandt is steaming in a circle backward and forward about ten miles off Cape Henry. She expects to complete the work of throwing the dead horses overboard tonight and will proceed to Newport News.

It is reported here that several members of the crew of the Rembrandt were burned but this report lacks confirmation.

Forward compartments of the Rembrandt are reported to be badly damaged by fire. The vessel will be inspected at Newport News to ascertain if it will be necessary to make repairs before she can proceed on her voyage to St. Navair, France, to which port she was bound when fire was dicovered in her hold.

FLAMES UNDER CONTROL

Rembrandt Goes to Newport News for Repairs After Dumping Carcasses.

Newport, News, Va., Nov. 10.—With the flames under control, the British steamer Rembrandt, which took fire 200 miles off the Virginia capes Monday, is now headed for Newport News for examination. Local agents for the Lamport and Holt Line stated tonight that the Rembrandt is expected to reach Newport News at an early hour in the morning.

With 800 horses in addition to a general cargo aboard the Rembrandt steamed from Baltimore Saturday, consigned to St. Nazaire, France. Yesterday she flashed the "S. O. S." when the fire was raging but later got the blaze under control and came within the capes, again returning to sea to throw overboard, some dead horses. A large number of horses, it is said, were suffocated.

DUPLIN TO HAVE COUNTY COMMENCEMENT IN SPRING

Plans Already Being Formulated. Teachers' Association December 18.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Warsaw, N. C., Nov. 10.—A movement has been started by the high and graded schools of Duplin county to hol dtheir annual county commencement about the first week in March.

The plans have been set in motion for a two day session, the first to be given to the rural schools, and the second to be devoted to the high schools of the county. Exhibits will be made of the work from each of the schools, and every effort will be made to make this the most successful commencement yet held.

The school officials have named December 4 as community service day, and they are impressing on the schools in the county the great good that will result if the work is done on this day as it should be, and they are also arranging attractive programs for the occasion.

The annual meeting of the Teachers' Association will be held in Kenansville on December 18, and Dr. J. Y. Joyner, State superintendent of education, has promised to be present on this date.

NO OFFICIAL DINNERS AT THE WHITE HOUSE

Embarrassing Position Relieved—Some Diplomats Not on Speaking Terms.

Washington, Nov. 10.—There will be no official dinners and receptions at the White House this year, it was learned definitely tonight, because of the death of Mrs. Wilson. The return of Miss Margaret Wilson today from a visit to her sister, Mrs. F. N. Sayre, at Williamstown, Mass., brought the question to the forefront.

By abandoning formal dinners and receptions for the season the President has avoided what officials say would have been an embarrassing situation. A dinner and a reception always have been given in honor of the diplomatic corps. At present, however, representatives here of Great Britain, France, Russia and Japan are not on speaking terms with those of Germany, Austria-Hungary and Turkey.

MONEY FOR MISSIONARIES

Eight Hundred Thousand Dollars Voted —General Committee M. E. Board.

Boston, Mass., Nov. 10.—Missionary appropriations amounting to $800,000, were voted at today's meeting of the General Committee of the Methodist Episcopal Board of Foreign Missions.

Bishop Robinson's request for a special appropriation to help German missinoaries in Southern Asia was referred to a committee.

During debate on a motion to combine the fields of South American and Mexico under the name of Latin-America, Bishop McConnell of Denver declared he did not expect any speedy settlement of the trouble in Mexico and that the missionaries should remain there.

SHE CAN'T SAY "HELLO".

"Central" Loses Power of Speech Just as Call Comes In.

(Muskogee (Okla.) Dispatch.)

Miss Flora Wetzel, 18 years old, a telephone operator, suddenly lost her voice while attempting to answer a call. She had just made one connection, and turned to answer another, when she discovered she could not speak.

Her lips formed the usual "number, please," but gave no sound. Her vocal chords had suddenly become paralyzed. Greatly frightened, she tried again and again to speak. Then she managed to signal for help. When friends arrived she tried again to talk to them, but could not. When they realized her condition they took her to a physician.

Dr. B. W. Randell declared she might never be able to speak. She was taken to the home of her parents.

Except that she is unable to make even the slightest sound, Miss Wenzel seems normal. About a year ago she was severely ill, and coughed incessantly. It is said to be possible that she weakened her vocal organs at that time. Physicians were unable to state whether or not any other serious results would follow the attack, although they declared that complete paralysis sometimes followed from attacks of the kind.

TIME HERE'S THE BIGGEST CHEESE.

Required 106,000 Pounds of Milk and Is 25 Feet in Circumference.

(Utica N. Y. Dispatch.)

The largest cheese on record, weighing nearly 7 tons, has just been completed at West Martinsburg, Lewis county. The cheese has been made for exhibition at the Panama-Pacific Exposition in San Francisco next year, and its manufacture required 106,000 pounds of milk. It measures 4 feet 7 inches in height and over 25 feet in circumference.

NOSTRILS AND HEAD STOPPED UP FROM COLD? TRY MY CATARRH BALM

Instantly Clears Air Passages; You Breathe Freely; Dull Headache Goes; Nasty Catarrhal Discharge Stops.

Try "Ely's Cream Balm."

Get a small bottle anyway, just to try it—Apply a little in the nostrils and instantly your clogged nose and stopped-up air passages of the head will open; you will breathe freely; dullness and headache disappear. By morning! the catarrh, cold-in-head or catarrhal sore throat will be gone.

End such misery, now! Get the small bottle of "Ely's Cream Balm" at any drug store. This sweet, fragrant balm dissolves by the heat of the nostrils; penetrates and heals the inflamed, swollen membrane which lines the nose, head and throat; clears the air passages; stops nasty discharges and a feeling of cleansing, soothing relief comes immediately.

Don't lay awake tonight struggling for breath, with head stuffed; nostrils closed, hawking and blowing. Catarrh or a cold, with its running nose, foul mucous dropping into the throat, and raw dryness is distressing but truly needless.

Put your faith—just once—in "Ely's Cream Balm" and your cold or catarrh will surely disappear.

COTTON IN GERMANY IS WORTH EIGHTEEN CENTS

Southern Spots Advance—Conditions Better.

Demand for Actual Cotton is Now Attracting the Interest of Dealers —Foreign Spinners Buying Heavily Here.

New Orleans, Nov. 10.—With important Southern spot markets showing advances of from one to three-sixteenths of a cent a pound today, the attention of the cotton trade was centered on the demand for actual cotton. It was said foreign spinners were better buyers than domestic markets.

Imports of cotton by Liverpool today were 33,619 bales of which 32,033 bales were American. Liverpool now is carrying twice as large a stock of cotton other than American as it was two years ago. Official figures on this stock are 282,000 bales last Friday against 184,000 a year ago and 140,000 two years. It is being freely predicted that England from now on will be a heavier buyer of cotton in this country.

Exports to foreign countries for the day were of encouraging proportions. From all ports 13,946 bales were cleared, 18,446 bales of which were destined for England and 500 bales for the continent. In connection with shipments to the continent and with reports of a better continental demand, it was reported today that cotton in Germany was bringing 18 cents a pound.

Exports thus far this week are in excess of exports up to the corresponding day last week. The coastwise movement also is heavier.

Port stocks against showed an important increase, standing tonight at 911,031 bales against 758,029 bales a week ago.

BURGLARIES AND ROBBERIES PUZZLE GREENSBORO POLICE.

Epidemic in the "Gate City"—Mrs. Medearis Dead—Funeral.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Greensboro, N. C., Nov. 10.—A series of burglaries and robberies here during the last ten days has puzzled the police more than anything that has happened in a long time. The work of the man or men who have done the acts has been so quiet and systematic as to prove beyond question that it is of that of an expert. The property taken has not been so great in the aggregate, yet enough to make it serious. In money $100 was stolen from a Miss Carson and $17 from Penny Brothers. Jewelry was taken at other places.

When the home of Miss Carson on Lindsay street was burglarized entrance was effected by way of a rear screen door. The burglar went straight through a hall to a bed room, where the contents of a trunk were taken out and a pocketbook containing the money was found. Miss Carson had taken the money home from a millinery store conducted by her on West Market street. No doubt the burglar had seen her put away the money. Penny Brothers' office was entered from a rear window and the $17 taken from a cash drawer. In three other homes burglars have entered, but nothing of great value was missed. The home of S. Clay Williams, an attorney, was entered while the family was at home, but they thought it was a servant walking around.

The funeral of William Sawyer, one of the two deaf and dumb boys killed by a train near Hildebrand Sunday, after the boys had run away from the deaf and dumb school at Morganton, was held here yesterday afternoon. The deceased was the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Sawyer. Rev. R. P. Walker, of Asheboro Street Baptist church, conducted the service. Six boy friends of the youth acted as pall-bearers. Sawyer was killed on his 12th birthday.

Mrs. W. F. Medearis died last night at St. Leo's Hospital, where she was carried six weeks ago for treatment. Her death was not unexpected. The funeral was held this afternoon at 3 o'clock from the First Presbyterian churhc, conducted by Revs. Melton Clark and R. M. Andrews. Interment was in Greene Hill cemetery. Before marriage the deceased was Miss Margaret Freeborn, of Hendersonville.

ADOPTION OF NEW LAW MAY RELEASE MURDERER.

Sentenced to Hang in South Carolina. Law Now Extinct.

Washington, Nov. 10.—Contending that an increase in the number of spectators at a legal execution of a criminal in South Carolina is an added punishment, attorneys for Joe Malloy, convicted of murder in that state, today filed with the Supreme Court a brief calling upon the court to hold the South Carolina electrocution law unconstitutional as to Malloy.

Malloy was charged with having murdered Prentiss Moore, in Marlboro county, South Carolina on Thanksgiving Day, 1910. At that time the death sentence for murder was inflicted by hanging. Before his trial, the state passed a law changing the manner of imposition from hanging to electrocution. Malloy's attorneys contend that he cannot be hanged now because that method of punishment was abolished and that he cannot be electrocuted because that would be imposing an additional punishment on him and therefore, would make the law "ex post facto" within the meaning of the constitution.

The electrocution law authorizes the attendance of from two to 14 more persons than under the preceding law. "One who is going to his death in disgrace and contumely naturally wishes the shameful spectacle to be witnessed by as few as possible," declare the attorneys and shall this court say that an increase in the number of curious onlookers is not a decided increase in his punishment?"

Buenos Ayres, Argentine, Nov. 10.—A local branch of the National City Bank of New York was opened for business today. The purpose of the branch is to facilitate business between the United States and the Argentine Republic. It is understood similar agencies will be opened in other South American countries.

with its varied line of groceries, the fancy work and fancy needlecraft exhibit, the green vegetable display, the corn and potato exhibit, the floral display, the county canning club and Farmers' Wives' League exhibit, the cotton exhibit, art and domestic science and the "Made in Wilmington" exhibits, all of them attractively arranged from which one quickly gains a clear insight into the wonderful resources of this great southeastern section of the State.

Cotton Display a Feature.

The cotton display in room 603, in charge of Mrs. J. B. Rice, has attracted much attention. The Delgado Cotton Mills have here an exhibit of gingham cloth and also show the different processes which the cotton undergoes from the time it is taken from the fields until it is made into cloth. On display in this room this afternoon from 4 to 6 o'clock will be cotton dresses in the latest styles on living models. A prize of $5 will be given for the most attractive dress which is made from cloth made in Wilmington.

In this room also is an interesting exhibit of gingham cloth from the Bellwill Cotton Mills. Mrs. Julia A. Booker has made an artistic piece of work out of cotton which resembles marble work which is on display in this room.

In this room also is the parcel post exhibit by the United States government which is in charge of Mr. W. V. Mitchell. This shows how practically every kind of merchandise from a circular saw for a saw mill to an automobile tire may be sent by mail and also the cost to various cities in this section. An attractive feature in this room also is a quilt made of cotton by members of the Aid Society of St. Andrew's Presbyterian church.

Ladies' Lunch Room.

Mindful ever of the comfort of the men, the ladies of Sorosis have arranged a dainty lunch room near the entrance of the fair in room No. 602 and here lunches are served from 12 to 3 o'clock in the afternoon and supper from 6 to 8 o'clock in the evening. Music in the evenings is furnished by West's orchestra, while during the lunch hour a large Victrola plays modern selections. This room has been attractively decorated by the Holland Nurseries with shrubbery of various kinds.

In room 614 is the fancy work exhibit where there are articles of every description that appeal to the feminine mind, all of it being made by Wilmington people. This is offered for sale at a reasonable price. Mrs. C. C. Covington is in charge of this feature.

Adjoining this room is the fancy needlework exhibit, which is in charge of Mrs. J. R Schonwald. This work is not offered for sale but for prizes which have been offered by Sorosis. It is only sufficient as to the varied nature of this exhibit to say that there are articles made by persons from 5 to 80 years of age and that one of the most beautiful specimens was made by a lady 72 years old. And last but by no means least there is an artistic piece of fancy work by a well known Wilmington man.

The Agricultural Exhibits.

Adjoining this, in room No. 612, is the green vegetable exhibit consisting of collards, turnips, savoy cabbage, kale, carrots, lettuce, peppers of all kinds, garden peas, parsnip, martinias and other kinds. In this room also is Mr. W. D. MacMillan's automobile exhibit.

Mr. J. P. Herring, county farm demonstrator, is in charge of the green vegetable exhibit and also of the Corn Club exhibit and others which are contained in Room No. 611. While there are possibly not so many samples of corn as at the fair last year, the specimens submitted are of a better grade. Mr. R. K. Merritt, of Castle Haynes, has on exhibition a stalk of okra which had to be cut off at the top in order to get it in the room and that means that it was 12 feet in height. A visit to this room will show that this is no fish yarn.

Capt. E. D. Williams, who used to be a good steamboat man, but has later shown himself to be a better farmer, has an exhibit of the products of the Maples farm that makes one forget the cry of hard times that is so often heard these days. He has a specimen of alfalfa grown by him that has been entered at the State fairs in New York and Pennsylvania and was equal to any of them, and yet there are people who say that alfalfa can't be grown in New Hanover county. He is also exhibiting crab grass and pea vine hay, fodder, shucks, oats, vetch, Japanese chesnuts, Japanese radishes, corn and other things of interest to the farmer.

No Fertilizer Used.

Mr. G. W. Corbett, of Currie, owner of Bear Pen farm, has also a most interesting exhibit of products grown from lands that were not fertilized and from soil that until recently had never been drained. He has mammoth potatoes grown on soil that has produced potatoes for 15 years and has never had an ounce of fertilizer. He also grows wool, pumpkins, corn and has on exhibition all kinds of canned goods from his farm. He grows his own corn and grinds it at his own mill and puts it on the market. He raises bees and produces thousands of pounds of honey and yet can't find a market for it in Wilmington.

A 34-pound drum caught by young George Hutaff last month and pickled blue fish by Mr. E. D. Harvey show something of the fish industry.

Longley Becomes Farmer.

Messrs. J. L. Gorman, George Hutaff, H. E. Longley, D. W. Trask and Henry Horne and the Orton Hotel farm have interesting exhibits of fruits and vegetables put up in jars in chemicals so as to show to splendid advantage. Mr. Longley used to be a plumber and is yet, but is getting to be quite a farmer also. There are other things in this room to be seen which will be of interest to all who visit it.

Attractive Floral Exhibits.

In room No. 610 is a most attractive floral exhibit by Miss Lucy Moore, the well known Wilmington florist, consisting of palms of all kinds, carnations, roses, ferns, crotons and other flowers. This is also the tea room and a most attractive one it is. Mrs. L. B. Sasser is chairman of the floral committee and Mrs. J. G. Barentine is chairman of the tea committee. Tea will be served every afternoon from 3 to 6 o'clock and also at night if the patronage is sufficient.

Adjoining this room are attractive floral exhibits by Mr. Will Rehder and Mrs L. P. Fowler, other well known Wilmington florists. Mr. Rehder has a varied collection of bulbs, roses, carnations, chrysanthemums, ferns, begonias, crotons and in fact of almost any flower that can be grown in Wilmington. A feature of Mrs. Fowler's display is the collection of roses included in which are the Killarney, the Aaron Ward, the Radiance and the Kaiserin. There is also an interesting amateur exhibit. In this room also is an attractive display of typewriters, and phonographs by C. W. Yates & Co., of which Mr. H. P. West is in charge.

In the corner room is an attractive and interesting canning exhibit, the principal feature of which is the splendid display of canned vegetables by the organization of farm women of Wrightsboro. Mr. J. A. Hewlett, of Sea Gate, has on display here apples grown by him, thus showing another resource of New Hanover. The Girls' Canning Club also has a fine tomato exhibit.

What a School Does.

In the adjoining room is a most attractive display by the Carolina Industrial School of Shelton's Neck, near Watha, which is in charge of Mrs. A. A. Peterson, who has general supervision of this school and also a school at Swannsboro. There are 16 varieties of vegetables grown on the farm in connection with the school and many specimens of basket work made by the children.

In room 608 is the Coca Cola counter, where souvenirs are given with every purchase. The profits from this stand go to the Boys' Corn Club.

"Made in Wilmington."

The Carolina Metal Products Company, one of Wilmington's younger manufacturing concerns, has an assortment of its products including metal shingles and all kinds of building materials made of metals. The Shepard's Chemical Company, manufacturers of Shepard's Fly Exterminator and a line of preparations made from ingredients from the long leaf pine, has two exhibits. The Southern Sign Shops have on exhibition samples of many neat signs, painted by them.

The Southern Map Company, of whic Mr. H. deW. Rapalje is president, has an exhibit of all kinds of maps and prints made by them. This concern has 16 different processes for making maps. It also carries a full line of surveyors' supplies.

C. W. Yates & Co., have on exhibition a line of window shades. A handsome library table, made of walnut by Mr. W. F. Koch, of this city, has attracted much notice. The Atlantic Coast Veneering Co., has an interesting assortment of machine-made baskets for truckers. Mr. W. W. Koch, the shingle man, has a display of the well known cypress shingle. Another interesting display is that of Spiritline Pine products, all of these being manufactured in Wilmington.

Swift & Co., have a display of all kinds of meat products, sold by them. The Navassa Guano Company and the American Agricultural Company have several sacks of their fertilizers exhibited. The Wilmington Safe & Table Company have a varied line of screen doors and screen windows. Bear & Co., have on exhibition specimens of their wines made from the blackberry and fruits of various kinds. An exhibit that has attracted interest is that of Hanover specials, cigars made in Wilmington. Another interesting exhibit is a line of hosiery, manufactured by Mr. J. H. Kuck, in Wilmington.

The Columbia Naval Stores Company has a display of rosins, pitch and different grades of turpentine, handled by them. The Carolina Cut Stone Company has a display of grave stones. Davis-Moore Paint Company has a fine assortment of their well known "Tenacity" paint and Roger Moore Sons have a brick exhibit. The Wilmington Cooperage Company show some of the products made by them. The Clark-Lynch Lumber Company have a display of samples of timber that they handle. The Crescent Candy Company have a full line of their products and the A. G. Warren Candy Company show some interesting ice cream apparatus. Asptyptodyne is another one of the interesting exhibits of interest to the visitors. The National Wood Products Company have on exhibition specimens of Apinol, one of their products.

Bolton Corn Show.

In room 606 is a varied assortment of peanuts, pears, velvet beans, Irish and sweet potatoes and other farm products. The Bolton Corn Show in room 605 is one of the most attractive exhibits of the fair. Especially interesting is the different kinds of forage products grown in Columbus county. After viewing this exhibit one does not wonder that the show at that place last week was one of the big events in Columbus county, especially when it is known that there were other exhibits that were just as good.

In room 604 is one of the best and most attractive art exhibits ever shown in New Hanover county. Here also is a most attractive display by the Audubon Nurseries. The art exhibit is in charge of Mrs. W. A. French.

Home Science Department.

The housewives are especially interested in Room No. 603 for here is the exhibit of the Home Science department consisting of breads, candies and cakes of all kinds, all of them made in Wilmington. The exhibition by the domestic science department of the Wilmington High School has attracted much attention as well as the fireless cooker and other household devices, made by boys and girls in Wilmington. The Tidewater Power Company has on exhibition a full line of all sorts of electrical appliances which can be used in cooking including a gas range.

The Live Stock Exhibit.

At the old fire station, corner Fourth and Princess streets, is on exhibition cattle and swine that will be of especial interest to the men. Mr. J. H. Hinton has several Holstein heifers and a Holstein bull. Mr. A. W. Branch also has a Holstein heifer. Mr. H. E. King, of Ashton, has several Duroc Jersey hogs. Mr. J. H. Blake, of Scott's Hill, has an Essex hog, and Mr. W. A. Taylor, of Wrightsville Sound, has several O. I. C. hogs. Mr. J. H. Hinton has entered two Berkshires and also an O. I. C. Other exhibits will come in today and this will be a most interesting spot for all interested in live stock.

There are other exhibits, many having come in yesterday and others will be here today. The judges will go over the entire exhibition today and will award the prizes which have been offered for the best exhibits in the different departments.

INTERESTING FACTS OF RECENT ELECTION

Several Candidates Have Filed Expense Accounts.

Clerk of the House Makes Public the Unofficial List of the Next Congress—Democrats 31 Majority By His Figures

Washington, Nov. 10—Senator Penrose, re-elected in Pennsylvania, spent $9,073,87 in his primary contests and the general election, according to his sworn statement filed today. He reported he received no contribution.

J. C. W. Beckham, Democratic candidate for senator from Kentucky, reported contributions of $5,325 and expenses of 2,556.66.

Senator Fletcher re-elected in Florida, reported he had no contributions and no expenditures.

Senator Cummins, re-elected in Iowa said he had received no contributions and had made no expenditures except his traveling expenses.

Representative Mann, of Illinois, Republican leader of the House, reported contributions of $685 and expenses of $1,740.

John H. Fow, of Philadelphia, as an unsuccessful candidate for Congress reported he had neither contributions nor expenses.

"The reason, I suppose, "he explained, "is that my friends and especially the Democratic Congressional committee did not know I was a candidate, unless it can be said that 160 pounds of hot air called speeches supposed to have been inflicted on the members of the Senate and House can be called contributions."

Victor Murdock, Progressive candidate for the Senate in Kansas, reported having spent $530, and having $350.

An unofficial list of representatives elect to the next Congress was completed today by South Trimble, clerk of the House. The compilation, not finally verified but to be printed for information, gives:

The Treatment of Influenza or La Grippe

It is quite refreshing these days to read of a clearly defined treatment for Influenza or La Grippe. In an article in the "Lancet-Clinic," Dr. James Bell of New York City, says he is convinced that too much medication is both unnecessary and injurious.

When called to a case of la grippe, the patient is usually seen when the fever is present, as the chill which occasionally ushers in the disease, has generally passed away. Dr. Bell then orders that the bowels be opened freely with salts, "Actolds" or citrate of magnesia. For the high fever, severe headache, pain and general soreness, one Anti-Kamnia Tablet every three hours is quickly followed by complete relief. Ask for A-K Tablets. They are also unexcelled for headaches, neuralgia and all pains.

Gossip From Washington

A PREACHER whom Representative Robert Crosser of Ohio remembers had elected to give his congregation a lengthy discourse on the prophets.

By the time he had reached the climax of his sermon one of the male members of the congregation was drowsing. The preacher, raising his voice until it penetrated every corner of the church, exclaimed:

"Where shall we place Hosea?"

The sleeper roused himself partially and straightened up with a tired air.

At this moment the preacher fairly shouted, "I say, where shall we place Hosea?"

By this time the sleeper had fully awakened, and, taking his hat in one hand and rubbing his eyes with the other, he started toward the door, remarking meantime in a loud voice:

"He can have my seat. I'm going home."

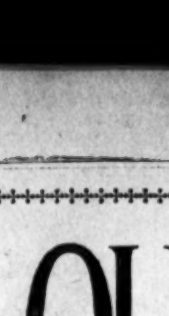
Representative J. Hampton Moore of Pennsylvania, who succeeded John Dalzell on the ways and means committee, knows his Washington like a book. During the visit of a party of home friends to the capital he was showing them the sights. Their attention was attracted by the group of heroic figures that make up the Lafayette statue at the southeast corner of Lafayette square.



J. HAMPTON MOORE.

This presents, with other things, a woman with a garment about her loins—which she is frantically grasping—holding up a naked sword to Lafayette, who is standing above.

As the party approached the statuary group Representative Moore struck the posture of a guide.

"And now, ladies and gentlemen," said he, "we come to the far famed statue of the great soldier and statesman, Marquis de Lafayette. Below him is a woman in suppliant attitude, holding a sword. Apparently she is speaking earnestly to him and"—

"But, Mr. Moore," interrupted one of the ladies of the party, "what is the woman saying to Lafayette?"

"That's very plain if you observe the condition of her attire, madam," he remarked. "She's begging him, 'Here, general, take this quick, while I catch my clothes!'"

And thereafter the lady's interrogations were wholly impersonal.

"This is the oldest Bible connected with the government," said a capitol guide to a number of excursionists the other day as he showed the Bible used in the supreme court of the United States.

The court Bible is a tiny book five and one-half inches wide and is bound in bright morocco leather with the word "Bible" printed in diminutive gold letters on the back. It is the book upon which, since 1800, every chief justice, with the single exception of Chief Justice Chase, and every member of the supreme court has taken the oath of office when accepting his appointment to the highest tribunal. More than that, every attorney but one who has practiced before the supreme court since 1800 has pledged his allegiance over the little volume. The exception was Daniel Webster.

A funny incident in the professional career of Senator William Hughes of New Jersey occurred when he first hung out his shingle at Paterson, N. J. There was in the city a man whose indolence had given him a bad name, so that pretty much everything that went wrong was promptly laid at his door. One day a wealthy man wearing a handsome diamond pin went into a saloon for refreshments, and as he leaned over the counter he noticed the work shirker, whose name was Sam, standing very close. On leaving the place he missed the pin and had Sam arrested.

SENATOR HUGHES.

Sam retained Hughes as his attorney. Protesting his innocence, Sam so wrought on Hughes' feelings that the latter assured the complainant that Sam was innocent of the theft. But the man was obdurate.

When Hughes returned to Sam with the man's statements, explaining how convincing were the facts against him, Sam, with tears in his eyes, again swore that he had never seen the pin.

The trial came off at the set time. Hughes pleaded the cause of Sam with such sincerity that the client was released as not guilty.

The next morning Sam stalked into Hughes' office.

"I haven't got any money to pay you, Mr. Hughes," he said as he threw a bit of pasteboard on the table, "but take your pay out of that. It's the pawn ticket for the pin."

Today's Short Story

An Elopement

WHILE in Paris soon after the American civil war a French army officer gave me the following account of his experience in Mexico:

After my entrance into the army I served on the Spanish frontier, where I picked up a knowledge of the Spanish language. From there I went with my regiment to Mexico, where our troops were supporting Maximilian. After his capture I engaged in a desperate plot to effect his escape, but we failed, were arrested and put in prison to await either being garroted or shot. The night before we were to be executed the officer in command came into the room where we were confined and asked if any of us spoke Spanish. Three of us responded. Then he asked us if we were Greek scholars. I alone replied in the affirmative.

The commandant took me to his colonel, who told me that he wished for a tutor in Greek for his son, who was preparing for college. I undertook the work and was promised that if I succeeded I would be permitted to return to France. The colonel then sent me to his hacienda in the province of Tamaulipas, giving me a pass signed by General Juarez.

My pupil, a boy of sixteen, and his sister, two or three years his senior, were on the veranda when I was driven up to the house. They knew my story, and the boy regarded me with keen interest. As for the girl, it was far more than this. A great sympathy welled up in her lustrous Spanish eyes.

People of Spanish blood have always been careful of their young girls, but there is no degree of watchfulness that would have prevented the stolen meetings between Donna Anita and me. Both understood that we were on the brink of a volcano. Then when we both knew and acknowledged that we were necessary to each other we were ready to run any risk rather than be separated. We are not ask Anita's father's consent to our union, for, if refused—and refusal was almost certain—my life would pay for our rashness. We must make an attempt at flight.

The hacienda was situated 150 miles south of the Texas border and thirty-five miles west of the gulf of Mexico. I chose the shorter line. A Frenchman to be traveling with a young girl at that day would at once excite suspicion; therefore I decided that Anita must go as a boy. Appropriating a suit of her brother's, she left her room one night after the lights were out and met me at the stable. We mounted and rode away.

Before us was happiness, behind us death. The risk we ran made the excitement keen as the edge of a scimitar and to me not unmixed with a sensation of pleasure. At 1:30 in the morning we stopped to rest our horses and water them at a stream. We were within a few miles of the coast when we passed a band of Mexican guerrillas encamped beside the road. They called on us to return, and I considered the better chance for us to obey. Their commander questioned me, and, assuming to be indignant, I pulled out my permit and, pointing to the name of Juarez, he let us pass.

In half an hour we reached the coast, and I set about securing a craft on which to reach Brownsville, the nearest point in Texas. There was but one craft in sight—a fishing smack—some two miles out. Fortunately I found a boat and pulled out to her. I told the owner that I was anxious to get to Brownsville on important business for General Juarez, whose magic name I showed him on my permit, offering the man a large sum for the use of his smack. After much delay he consented, pulled me ashore, took in Anita and provisions and pulled back to the smack and set sail. When far out at sea I saw a party of horsemen dash up to the beach and scan the water. They were too late. There was no boat in which to follow.

At Brownsville I gave the fisherman a draft on my father in Paris, with which he was obliged to be content, and drew another for myself. Anita and I were married and worked our way to Galveston to await funds. When they came we sailed for New York and from there to France.

COZY BUNGALOW INTERIOR

ATTRACTIVE SITTING ROOM.

SOUTHERN pine was used in finishing the interior of the cozy bungalow apartment pictured here. The wide window with its dainty scrim curtains, the broad window seat and the inviting brick chimney are all suggestive of comfort.

BLACK VELVET.

Successful Use Made of It on Gowns and Millinery.

A touch of black velvet in some shape or other is worn with almost every costume. Many girls simply wear a black velvet throat band, which has its own peculiar variations.

It began by closely encircling the throat. Next it took unto itself a pendant, and before long that ornament was suspended from a three inch tab. The tab naturally suggested the longer strand, the inch wide velvet ribbon necklace or soutoir falling to the waist, which makes a chic contrasting double stripe in black against the front of the shoulder wide plaited white frill on the neck of the simpler frocks.

Several of the most successful models in summer dinner gowns show a touch of black velvet in a most unexpected manner, as no other black is used in their development. The velvet appears to have been added for the purpose of setting off the paler shades and the filmy textures of the materials, and in each instance the result has been most satisfactory.

For Little Girls.

Smart suits for little girls have checked skirts and plain white serge coats.

LITTLE ONES' STYLES.

In plain colored dresses for girls the sash is very important.

Young girls' white linen frocks are sometimes scalloped in color.

Little boys' blouses are made of almost any fabric from chambray to silk.

Smocked dresses are in vogue again for little girls, and nothing could be prettier.

Small panama hats for girls are trimmed with scarfs of heavy white chiffon or richly colored ribbon.

Suits of lightweight mohair are admirable for the small man. They are dressy and cool enough for summer wear.

The sailor suit and the soldier suit of khaki are still to be seen, and if consulted the small boy invariably prefers them for himself.

Thick White Sauces.

To prevent lumps from forming in the thickening which one stirs from milk and flour for various purposes be careful not to pour in too much milk on the flour at first and be sure to stir the mixture with a fork instead of a spoon. Stirring with a fork insures a smooth mixture, and more milk may be added later.

TEMPERING CHINA.

The women who have the pleasure of washing and caring for their china are often to be envied by the women who are at the mercy of careless maids. Sometimes maids are real afflictions, because they are so careless with the most treasured pieces of china. It is an instinct with most women to love pretty china, and it is an instinct with many maids to chip fine china through careless handling.

Yet much of this carelessness can be avoided if certain principles are taken into consideration. The first consideration is the effect of heat and cold on fine china. The reaction from heat or cold which often results in cracks can be prevented in most instances by a process called tempering.

When china is first brought into the house place it in a pan and cover with cold water. Let the water gradually come to a boil, turn out the gas and let the water cool. When cool remove from the stove, wash and put away. When china is placed in very hot water it expands. If it is then immediately exposed to the cold air contraction occurs and a crack is the result. It seems that this tempering forms a habit of resistance in the china when sudden contraction occurs.

When washing fragile china to prevent it from breaking it is a good idea to place a clean Turkish towel at the bottom of the pan. The housewife should make a business of visiting the kitchen frequently when the dishwashing is in process, as the maid in many instances stacks as many dishes in the dripping pan as she can.

The fear of the unexpected appearance of the mistress will often have more effect in forming correct habits in connection with dishwashing than all the talks and examples in the world.

DIET FOR DIABETICS.

Persons afflicted with diabetes should exclude so far as possible all starchy foods and sugar. Saccharine may be used for sweetening. Following is a list of foods that may be eaten:

Soups or broths of beef, chicken, mutton, veal, oysters, clams, terrapin or turtle (not thickened with any farinaceous substances), beef tea.

Shellfish and all kinds of fish, fresh, salted, dried, pickled or otherwise preserved (no dressing containing flour).

Eggs in any way most acceptable.

Fat beef, mutton, ham or bacon, poultry, sweetbreads, calf's head, sausage, kidneys, pig's feet, tongue, tripe, game (all cooked free of flour, potatoes, bread or crackers).

Gluten porridge, gluten bread, gluten gems, gluten biscuits, gluten wafers, gluten griddle cakes, almond bread or cakes, bran bread or cakes.

String beans, spinach, beet tops, chicory, kale, lettuce, plain or dressed with oil and vinegar; cucumbers, onions, tomatoes, mushrooms, asparagus, oyster plant, celery, dandelions, cresses, radishes, pickles, olives.

Custards, jellies, creams (without sugar), walnuts, almonds, filberts, Brazil nuts, cocoanuts, pecans.

Tea or coffee (without sugar), pure water, peptonized milk.

Must Not Take.

Liver, sugars, sweets or starches of any kind, wheaten bread or biscuits, corn bread, oatmeal, barley, rice, rye bread, arrowroot, sago, macaroni, tapioca, vermicelli, potatoes, parsnips, beets, turnips, peas, carrots, melons, fruits, puddings, pastry, pies, ices, honey, jams, sweet or sparkling wines, cordials, cider, porter, lager, chestnuts, peanuts.

Relief For Burns.

Old fashioned English housewives used to make a poultice of scraped potato to relieve pain from swollen bruises or burns. A doctor writing to the London Lancet recently indorsed this treatment in cases of gout, lumbago, rheumatism and bruises, especially in reducing swellings in cases of synovitis (inflammation of the membranes lining joints, as knee, ankle or wrist, or sheathing tendons). In acute cases the raw potato juice was made into a fomentation with hot water, and was found to give great relief. The actual medicinal agent of the potato juice seems unknown.

Cleaning Windows.

The most simple and effective way to clean windows is to moisten a cloth with alcohol, going over the window first with this and then polishing immediately with a dry cloth. The glass is brilliant, never cloudy or smudgy. One pint of the alcohol will do twenty windows inside and out.

A Mouse Preventive.

No matter how courageous a mouse may be, he will not reopen a hole which has been filled with any mixture containing lye. Flour and lye make a good paste for the purpose.

Random Shots From Witty Shooters

Too Much.

The penurious woman was talking to her maid, who had been with her three weeks.

"What do you want to leave us for, Lizzie? I'm sure we have treated you as one of the family."

"Indade an' you have, ma'am, an' I've made up me mind not to stand it any longer."

Eccentric.

The man arose and gave his seat to a girl. "Oh, thank you most kindly, sir," she replied. "Don't mind her being polite," explained a sad faced woman. "I'm taking her to a sanitarium."

Too High.

After listening to the charge made by the police officer the judge turned to the prisoner and said:

"Did I understand you to say you had an alibi?"

"No, your honor," replied the prisoner. "I'm a poor man, and my lawyer wanted $25 extra to furnish one."

Sensitive.

"Gotrox got mad when I presented him with that handsome spear. I thought he'd value a fine trophy."

"It looked like a slap at his wife's former occupation. She used to carry a spear in the chorus."

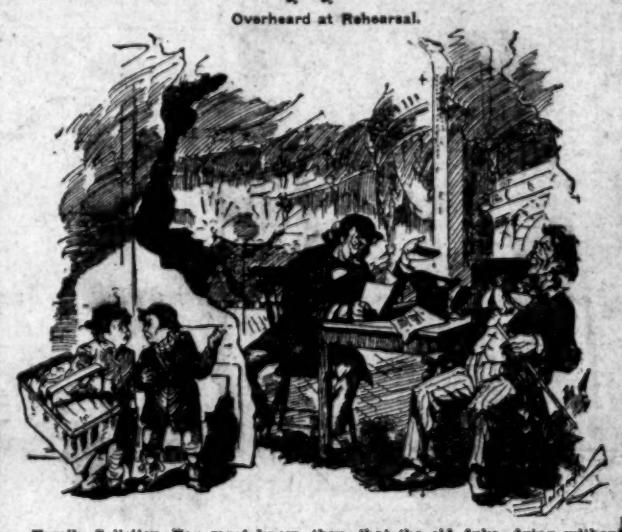
Overheard at Rehearsal.



Family Solicitor—You must know, then, that the old duke, dying without issue, you, as the head of the collateral branch, not only inherit the titles and all the estates, but £750,000.

First Small Boy (to second ditto)—Say, Smiggy, now is the time to strike him for your mudder's wash bill.

PRESERVING UTENSILS.

Tin or iron ware should not be used for making jellies or pickles or for bottling and preserving fruits. Fruit juices are acid, some more, some less so, and acid acts upon most metals. The best preserving kettle is a good enamel one, and this is as true of the spoons used in stirring if you have not a solid silver tablespoon available. No metal which may be affected by acids should be used.

In using glasses with tin tops it is necessary to cover the jelly with paraffin or waxed paper before the tin cover is attached. For bottling and preserves the wide mouthed jars are probably the easiest to use, and new rubbers should be purchased every year. Do not attempt to use old rubbers, for when seemingly good they are often in the condition to permit entrance of air soon after sealing.

The best preserve jar is the simplest in construction, seals most perfectly, washes most easily, has the fewest parts to lose and best protects the contained food from contact with metals.

All jars should be tested before using. Fill the jar partly full of water, adjust rubber and cover and seal. Invert the jar, leaving it in this position until assured it does not leak. If it leaks investigate to find if it is the rubber, cover or an imperfect jar. Use such jars for pickles or some food that does not require sealing.

Fruit for putting up should be just ripe, not so perfectly ripe that it is soft, but so that the flavor has been developed and the quality of the fruit is there. A wet or dry season has a marked effect upon fruit.

Ginger Pear Loaf.

Pare, quarter and core enough pears to make a pint of pulp when cooked. Stew the pears in a sirup, seasoned with lemon rind, until soft enough to mash into a pulp, and then add a cupful of finely chopped preserved ginger. Soften a third of a box of gelatin in half a cupful of water. Bring the pulp to a boil and add half a cupful of sugar and the gelatin, stirring until dissolved; then pour into a bowl and set on ice. When the pulp begins to stiffen beat with a cream whip until light and stiff; then add a pint of whipped cream that has been sweetened. Pour into dish and set on ice again. Garnish with preserved ginger. —Country Gentleman.

An Old Favorite

Sorrows of Werther

Werther had a love for Charlotte
Such as words could never utter.
Would you know how first he met her?
She was cutting bread and butter.

Charlotte was a married lady,
And a moral man was Werther
And for all the wealth of Indies
Would do nothing for to hurt her.

So he sighed and pined and ogled,
And his passion boiled and bubbled
Till he blew his silly brains out
And no more was by it troubled.

Charlotte, having seen his body
Borne before her on a shutter,
Like a well conducted person,
Went on cutting bread and butter.
—William Makepeace Thackeray.

Coiffure Decoration.

The pleasing coiffure arrangement pictured here owes much of its effectiveness to the capelike jeweled frame that is worn over it. This is fashioned

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

CORPORATION IS ORGANIZED

Charter Has been Issued and Cotton Relief Company Ready to do Business in New York

New York, Nov. 10.—It was learned here today that the cotton trading corporation which is part of the syndicate plan for taking over old December contracts in the local market, had already been incorporated and fully organized. Members of the exchange have now completed the work of signing the greements necessary to the corporation-syndicate plans, and while no official announcement has been made a prominent official of the exchange said today that he saw no obstacle to re-opening the market by the beginning of next week.

Comment on the clearing house plans submitted yesterday was generally favorable. The conference committee issued a notice to members that no cotton pledged to the corporation having been tendered in the pending ballot and there were no further developments with reference to international liquidation.

Advices from the Southwest indicated continued firmness in the interior market which local brokers attributed to export and investment buying. There will be a regular meeting of the New York revision committee on November 17th but differences between grades applying to deliveries on December contracts will not be finally fixed under the new by-laws until November 25th, the first notice day being November 27th.

BUYERS OUTNUMBER SELLERS

For the First Time Since the European War Broke Out—Leading Stocks Advance.

New York, Nov. 10.—For the first time since the formation of the unofficial market which deals in the more active listed stocks, buying orders today far outnumbered offers to sell. United States Steel, Amalgamated Copper, Reading, the Harriman issues and other stocks of like character all were higher by 4 to 7 points than a month ago. In the official market similar conditions prevailed. New York City three-year 4 per cent notes attaining a new high price of 1.03½, which puts them on a 4.60 basis.

Of more importance, however, was the news that local brokerage houses had negotiated time loans in London on favorable terms.

Quoted rates for long time money were unchanged here, but the supply was more abundant. Call money was easier at 4½ per cent for special transactions, which established the lowest rate since the outbreak of the war. All grades of commercial paper were in demand, short maturities being accepted at as low as 4½ per cent.

The activity of markets at a new low price in the exchange market attested the increasing business being done here for Europe and gave rise to fresh rumors that a large loan for that country. Sterling exchange was lower on light business and Paris checks and drafts were merely nominal. More gold was exported to Canada, presumably in connection with operations of the gold pool.

There were some developments during the day, including a large decrease in unfilled orders by the United States Steel Corporation for October, the largest increase in idle cars for this period of the year since 1907, a large falling off in local exports and unfavorable statement of gross earnings for October by the Great Northern railway.

London reported a decided stimulous to financial business the chief contributing factor being the naval news, which was followed by a pronounced drop in marine insurance rates.

GERMAN SPY SHOT IN LONDON TOWER

Carl Hans Lody Claimed He Was an American.

WAS GIVEN FAIR TRIAL

Said to Have Been the First in Generations to Die in England as a Spy—Formerly Officer in German Navy.

London, Nov. 10.—It is officially announced that Carl Hans Lody, alias Charles A. Ingles, who was found guilty by a court martial of espeonage November 2, has been shot as a spy.

When arrested Lody claimed to be an American, but later confessed he was a German. He had lived in New York and Omaha. In the latter city he married the daughter of Gottlieb Stors, a brewer who later divorced him.

Lody met his death in the Tower of London after he was found guilty by court martial on charges of having communicated with the enemy. The statement concerning the execution is brief, merely saying:

"Sentence was duly confirmed."

It is said Lody refused to the last to reveal the name of the superior officer from whom he received his instructions to spy on the British navy.

This was the first execution in the Tower of London since 1700. The scene of the execution was the tower barracks, not far from the spot where Anne Boleyn and other persons famous in English history were put to death.

Lody was about 28 years old.

First in Generations.

Carl Hans Lody, the first man in generations to be shot as a spy in England, once was employed as a guide by a New York tourist agency and also worked for the Union Pacific Railroad in Omaha. He was arrested in London late in September charged with espionage, and at his trial testified that he was a former lieutenant in the German navy but that he had been transferring to the reserves.

Lody sai dhe was ordered to go to England and keep track of the British fleet, but was warned not to do any spying. He was told to travel as an American citizen and "in consequence of that I received an American passport," he said. He claimed membership in several New York societies.

The prosecutor, summing up, said Lody had admitted being an alien enemy, posing as a civilian, at times as American—meanwhile communicating important information to Germany. He described the prisoner as one "upon who mthe international law against spies should be imposed."

The defense admitted that Lody was a German lieutenant and said he had taken the risks because he thought it was his highest duty to do so. Lody's attorney asked for a sence less severe than death but said if the full penalty were exacted Lody would face it like a man.

SOUTHERN SUFFRAGISTS HEAR MANY ADDRESSES

Mrs. Belmont Declares for "Vote" Regardless of How.

Gathering at Chattanooga is Enthusiastic Over Future—Democratic Party Must Be Made to Talk and Talk Soon.

Chattanooga, Tenn., Nov. 10.—Predictions that the women of the United States will have the ballot within a comparatively few years and assertions that there will be no quarrel among the leaders over the methods by which it is to be obtained, were made by Mrs. O. H. P. Bimont, of New York, and other women prominent in the suffrage movement throughout the country, in their addresses before the Southern States Suffrage Conference here tonight.

"We suffragists have progressed so far," said Mrs. Belmont, who delivered the principal address, "that we are actually disagreeing about the terms upon which we shall accept the vote—the inevitable premonition of victory. I am not particular how the political emancipation of women is effected. I have sworn allegiance to the national amendment for woman suffrage, while the Southern conference seems to hold to th principles of State rights. If the latter method proves effective, I shall gratefully accept the results."

This sentiment was endorsed by the half dozen other speakers, including Mrs. Harriet Stanton Blatch, of New York, and Miss Laura Clay, of Kentucky.

Among other speakers who sounded the note of optimism for the suffrage cause were Mrs. Nellie H. Somerville, of Greenville, Miss.; Mrs. Hattie R. Parker, of New Orleans, and Mrs. Ida Porter-Boyer, of Pennsylvania.

The immediate object of the Southern State woman suffrage conference is to make the Democratic party declare for "votes for women" in its next national platform, according to Miss Kate Gordon, of New Orleans, who spoke to the convention today. Miss Gordon stated that President Wilson had said he was helpless to act and that any expression on suffrage for women must come from the party. She decirsed now was the time to seek that expression from the Dmocrats.

MAIN FACT IS DEMOCRATS STILL ARE IN CONTROL

Wilson Hopes Best Comment on Election Will Be Actions.

Washington, Nov. 10.—Commenting on last week's elections President Wilson today said he was more interested in action than i ntalk, and declared he hoped his best comment would be the actions of the administration during the next two years. Mr. Wilson added that the Democrats were still in control of the government and that was the main fact to be seen in the election.

STATE CONVICTS USED AT WHITNEY NO MORE

Two Hundred or More to be Returned to the Prison.

Contracting Company Surrenders Them to State, Which Will Hire Them to Railroad and Turnpike and Development Enterprises.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Raleigh, N. C., Nov. 10.—The big squad of State convicts, averaging from 200 to 220, that have been hired out by the State's prison management at $1.50 to $1.75 per day per convict, are to be returned to the prison at once from the Whitney power plant on the Yadkin river and will be distributed among several of the railroad and turnpike construction enterprises that are receiving ald through this prison labor in exchange for stock on the roads. To this end the Council of State, in special session this morning, directed Superintendent J. S. Mann, of the prison, to distribute these condicts between the Bat Cave Turnpike, the Watauga & Yadkin Valley and the Elkin & Alleghany Railroads as he may find most expedient.

This action followed a formal notice from the contractors, the Hardaway Contracting Company, that the use of the convicts would be discontinued at once, as conditions had developed that made it impracticable to use the convict labor further in this work. While it is conceded that the European war conditions have had the effect of necessitating curtailment of the work, the development being largely through French capital, it is also explained that the work at Whitney has reached that state of development that convict labor woul dnow come in competition with free labor and the prison management does not care to stand ior such competition. Masons and stone workers are understood to be largely necessary now in the prosecution of the work.

The Southern Aluminum company, is behind the Whitney development on the Yadkin and it is primarily the installation of an immense aluminum plant involving the investment of millions of dollars. It is estimated that it will require two years, if not longer, yet to complete the plant ready for operation, if there is no shutting down of the work necessitated by the European war conditions.

The distribution of these 200 and more convicts that have been working at Whitney, among the railroad enterprises of the Watauga & Yadkin valley, the Elkin & Alleghany and the Bat Cave Turnpike will mean very much more rapid progress for construction work of each, although it will mean that in the place of the cash revenue received for their labor at Whitney there must now be taken only stock in the several railroad enterprises for the labor expended on each.

FATAL STOCK DISEASE IS RAPIDLY SPREADING

Kentucky is Added to the Quarantine List.

Union Stock Yard in Chicago Will Be Reopened Next Sunday Night. Live Stock from Uninfected Districts.

Washington, Nov. 10.—Fourteen States now are under Federal quarantine because of foot and mouth disease. Kentucky was added to the list today, reports of infection in that State coming with news of further spread of the epidemic in Indiana, Ohio and Michigan.

Extension of the infected district surprised and somewhat discouraged officials of the Department of Agriculture. Nevertheless the hope was confidently reiterated that there would be no furthr spread. The only State under suspicion is Mississippi, where a strange malady in a herd of cattle at Como is being investigated.

KINSTON LEADS IN SALES OF LEAF FOR OCTOBER.

Total Tobacco Sales in State for the Month Greater Than in 1913.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

The report of leaf tobacco sales of the North Carolina markets issued by the State Department of Agriculture shows 62,901,881 pounds sold during October compared with 58,752,605 during October, 1913. IS NEGRO IN SOUTH MENACE TO HEALTH?

Subject Discussed by Physicians at Richmond.

MAY SPREAD PELLAGRA

Are Known to Carry Certain Diseases and May Carry Others—Should be Investigated—North Carolinians There

Richmond, Va., Nov, 10.—Addressing the symposium on tuberculosis of the Southern Medical Association, which formally opened its eigth annual convention here today, Dr. Robert Wilson, Jr., of Charleston, S. C., said that in the relation of the negro to disease, the South had a health problem of the very highest importance. He said that it was the clear duty of the South, and justice to the negro, to ascertain by careful clinical and post-mortem study if the commonly accepted belief that the negro is a menace to health of the white is true.

He recognized that they had sowed the seeds of certain diseases in the South and was particularly a carrier of the germs of malaria and tuberculosis. Especial attention, he thought, should be paid to the relation of the negro to the spread of pellagra, since statistics from Southern states and cities show that he is highly susceptible to this disease as compared with the whites.

Dr. Charles H. Cocke, of Asheville, N. C., advocated a direct educational propaganda, through public lectures, moving picture shows, teaching in schools with the main lesson directed against the danger of neglect together with the early recognition and segregation of each case, as the best method of preventing and curing tuberculosis.

Responsibility for the management of tuberculosis was placed on the state boards of health, by Dr. W. S. Rankin, of Raleigh, N. C., He would have control of the disease left to minor organizations under a comprehensive and definite state policy.

A Secretary of Public Health, with a seat in the cabinet to work in conjunction with State Boards, was advocated by Dr. G. M. Cooper, of Clinton, N. C.,

Among the speakers at the meeting of the section on surgury, were Dr. Joseph C. Boodgood, of Baltimore, Md., who said that civil surgeons have much to learn from those engaged in military work; Dr. LeGrand Querry, of Columbia, S. C., Colonel Charles Richard, U. S. A., Surgeon General W. C. Gorgas, U. S. A., Dr. George T. Tyler, of Greensville, S. C., and Dr. B. N. Bernheim, of Baltimore, Md.,

Dr. Cary Grayson, physician to President Wilson, addressed the association tonight on "The Old Time Doctor" and ex-Governor Cunningham, of Alabama, spoke on "Public Health".

CARRANZA WOULD TALK OVER TERMS

ranza's desire for peace than on any direct advices today.

RELIEVED OF COMMAND

Carranza Takes Action as Result of Convention Order and Trouble.

Mexico City, Nov. 10.—Generals commanding 50,000 men in this vicinity were relieved of their commands today by General Venustiano Carranza, because they refused to nullify their action in signing an agreement to obey the Aguas Callentes convention. Among these soldiers are General Benavides, General Antonio Villareal, General Juvenci Roblez and many others.

It is reported here that General Villa's advantage guard of 15,000 men is marching south of Encarnacion de Diaz on its way to the capital which it is said to have been ordered to take in the name of Eulalio Guiterrez. Between these troops and their goal is General Pablo Gonzales, loyal to Carranza, with 40,000 troops disposed about Queretaro City. A clash is expected there.

In the capital there are 27,000 men, according to official figures.

Fighting of a severe character continues in the suburbs of the capital. Persistent attacks are being made by Zapata followerers. During the fighting last Sunday, it is reported there werer 300 casualties.

Shells rushed to the front from the citadel here are said to have been loaded with saw dust instead of powder. It is reported, however, the Carranza forces have been victorious everywhere in the suburban fighting.

AGAIN BEFORE NACO

Carranza Garrison in Northern Mexico Being Besieged.

Nacon, Ariz., Nov. 10.—Gov. Maytorena's Villa troops opened the renewed siege on the Carranza garrison in Naco, Sorona, early tonight. For 30 minutes the attackers threw sheils into the town, doing litle damage.

General Hill, commanding the garrison, sent out a skirmishing party in the afternoon, which was sent scurrying back to cover by Maytorena's Yaqui Indians.

Five hundred fresh troops are reported to have arrived at Nogules on their way to reinforce Maytorena. Hill is credited with the intention of bringing 800 men from Agua Prieta for a rear attack on Maytorena.

MARINES LANDING EXPLAINED

Were From Red Cross Ship and Carried Supplies Ashore.

Washington, Nov. 10.—Rear Admiral Howard, commander of the Pacific, reported today that the cruiser Chattanooga had distributed American Red Cross supplies among 800 needy families at Acapulco, Mexico.

Admiral Howard's dispatch was interpreted by navy officials as the explanation of reports from Mexico City that American marines had landed at Acapulco. In all probability the Chattanooga's marines landed the supplies and supervised their distribution.

INCLINED TO YIELD

Commission Returns From Mexico City With Word From Carranza.

Elpaso, Texas, Nov. 10.—A telegram from Aguas Callentes today said the commission headed by General Obregon had informed the convention that Carranza was disposed to turn over the government as soon as Provisional President Guiterres and his cabinet could assume control. Carranza previously had asserted he would not accept the convention's action in deposing him.

CARRANZA ACCEDES

Vera Cruz, Nov. 10.—Carranza has acceded to all the demands of the United States government in connection with the American evacuation of Vera Cruz according to private advices received here.
